Nixon asks death penalty in kidnap killings

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon ordered Attorney General William B. Saxbe Friday to press Congress for reinstatement of the death penalty for kidnapings in which the victim is killed.

Nixon's chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig, told reporters the President had "conveyed his concern on the increased kidnapings to Saxbe" at a White House dinner Thursday night and again Friday at a Cabinet meeting.

The Supreme Court ruled June 29, 1972, that the death penalty as now administered in the United States is "cruel and unusual punishment" forbidden by the Constitution because of the hit-or-miss manner in which various state laws on capital punishment are applied.

The Senate is to take up a bill next that was writen to satisfy the Supreme Court's objections. The measure would make the death penalty mandatory for federal crimes under certain conditions —including kidnaping in which a death occurs — for which the death penalty can now be imposed simply at the discretion of a jury.

Saxbe issued a statement saying he was "especially concerned" about the recent rash of kidnapings, and singled out the case of Patricia Hearst's abduction in San Francisco.

"We are an open society," Saxbe said, "and we cannot place our children or other loved ones under constant guard. The only practical way to deter kidnapers is to make the penalty so severe that they will think twice before attempting it."

Saxbe urged states to consider legislation reinstating the death penalty in cases where the victim is killed. "It would not affect kidnapings already committed," he said, "but it could help to prevent them in the future."

Talking to reporters aboard Air Force One as it took Nixon to Florida for the weekend, Haig said: "The President said he wanted increased emphasis on legislation that had been on Capitol Hill for a year which provides for reinstitution of the death penalty when the victim is killed" in kidnapings.

Haig said Nixon did not mention the Hearst case, but Saxbe said that kidnaping "has made it clear to us what personal anguish these terrible crimes cause."

"The President charged Saxbe with reviewing whatever additional measures the federal government might take to heal this problem of kidnaping," Haig said.

Nixon was referring to legislation sent to Congress last March 21 to deal with the problems of hijacking, terrorism and other violence.

Arabs reported ready to lift U.S. oil embargo

CAIRO (UPI) — Arab oil ministers will announce in Cairo Sunday a lifting of the embargo on oil exports to the United States, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram reported today.

Arab sources in Beirut said earlier that the oil ministers would meet in Tripoli on Wednesday and that there were growing indications it might not result in an end to the boycott.

However, in a dispatch from Riyadh, capital of Saudi Arabia, Al Ahram said: "Arab Oil Ministers will decide Sunday at their meeting in Cairo to lift the embargo which had been imposed on the export of oil to the United States."

This will be in accordance with a secret resolution taken at a summit conference of four arab heads-of-state held in Algiers last month, the newspaper said.

The summit brought together Egyptian President Answar Sadat, Saudi Arabian King Faisal, Algerian President Houari Boumedienne and Syrian President Hafez Assad.

After the summit, the Egyptian and Saudi Arabian Foreign Ministers traveled to Washington carrying what they described then as "pleasant news" to President Nixon. The nature of this news was not divulged.

Al Ahram said the oil Ministers conference was originally scheduled to open Sunday in the Libyan capital of Tripoli.

But, the newspaper said, the Saudi Arabian and Egyptian governments decided to convene the gathering in Cairo. The newspaper did not explain the reason for the switch.

Earlier Friday, there was confusion concerning the site and date of the conference, and although Arab sources said it would open in Tripoli, Egyptian oil ministry officials said "no final decision had been reached."

The Arab sources also reported what they termed strong opposition in some Arab quarters to any lifting of the embargo now.

A 'MOTHER' LOSES HER CHILD

Rhonda Marie Horn, 2, sleeps peacefully in the arms of her "mama," Mrs. Linda Horn, just before the County Juvenile Court in Ann Arbor, Mich. took her from the only parents she had ever known. The court Friday order Rhonda placed in a foster home while preparations are made to return her to her real mother. Describing themselves as "heartsick and tired of being treated like criminals," the Horns released the child. They plan to continue their custody fight.

13 die as bus rams truck near border

OCOTILLO, Calif. (UPI) — A U.S. Border Patrol bus loaded with illegal aliens being transported to a detention center in El Centro slammed into a truck rig parked off the side of a roadway Friday, killing 13 persons.

Authorities said 12 of the aliens and the driver were killed. There were reports of an additional six other persons injured.

The accident happened on Interstate 8 about 6 ½ miles from here.

There were no signs of braking by the bus and it was initially believed the driver either fell asleep or had a heart attack, the California Highway Patrol said.

The aliens were being transferred from Chula Vista to the U.S. Border Patrol detention center in El Centro.

All the aliens killed were male, the CHP said.

Nixon's tax returns--- reason to resign: Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Friday the Joint Congressional Committee studying President Nixon's tax returns will issue findings that will give more cause for his resignation than any alleged connection with Watergate.

Mills said the information, to be released within two months, will in his opinion give reason for Nixon to resign. The committee is studying all aspects of the returns, including a controversial deduction for Nixon's donation of his vice presidential papers to the National Archives.

In Washington the White House took strong issue with Mills' statement. An official, who asked not to be named, said:

"Congressman Mills is taking a dirty, cheap shot that is unbecoming his place as a respected member of Congress. Utilizing a scare tactic by referring to a report which I believe is nonexistent is the lowest form of political demagoguery. If he has the guts to raise the issue he ought to have the guts to say what is in the report."

Although Mills used the term report, he apparently was referring to the written conclusions the committee will issue and not any findings already on paper.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the joint congressional panel studying the tax returns, issued a statement in Washington saying he had not discussed the case lately with Mills and did not know what Mills was talking about.

"I have said that evidence thus fa indicates the President will owe more taxes but that we do not have proof of fraud," Long said. "That statement still stands."

The committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, Utah, said he was surprised by Mills statement. He said that pending the committee's next meeting with committee staff members who have been doing the investigating, he would agree with Long there was "no apparent evidence of fraud in the President's tax returns."

TREAT FOR A YOUNG HERO

Danny Schaefer, 9, works the controls in a United Airlines 747 flight simulator Friday in Denver as a treat for his heroic action. Danny watched a twin engine aircraft crash on Mar. 2 and kept telling his parents he saw the plane go down, but they refused to believe him. Later he convinced authorities and led them to the crash scene. Sen. Lowell Weicker (R-Conn.) and 5 others were killed in the crash. There were 2 survivors.

Mild quake rocks Southland

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A sharp earthquake jolted a wide area of southern California, including the Pomona Valley, at dinnertime Friday, and caused a lot of excitement among tremor conscious residents. But there were no reports of injuries or serious property damage.

The Cal Tech Seismological Lab said the temblor had a magnitude of 4.5 on the Richter scale at 5:52 p.m. PDT. The epicenter was 2 or 3 miles from Newhall, a suburban area in the northern San Fernando valley, about 40 miles from downtown Los Angeles.

According to Dr. James Whitcomb, Cal Tech seismologist, Friday night's quake was one of the largest aftershocks of the killer Sylmar quake of Feb 9, 1971, which had a magnitude of 6.4.

That quake hit just after 6 o'clock in the morning and caused 62 deaths and about $233 million in property damage.

Telephone service in the Newhall area was temporarily disrupted by the Friday quake, and the Newhall sheriff's station said there was one report of "some grocery items being shaken off shelves in a market."

Sheriff's cars checked the surroundings for property damage, but reported none.

Alarmed residents called police, newspaper and wire service offices in a radius of 40 miles. The quake was felt in Orange County, 35 to 40 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, to the west in Santa Monica, to the northeast in Beverly Hills and Hollywood, and to the north and east in the Glendale and Pasadena areas.

Residents in Pasadena and nearby Arcadia reported that water sloshed against the sides of swimming pools when the quake hit.

Kidnapers silent; free food reaches $1 million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The value of the food ransom offered by Randolph Hearst for his daughter's freedom passed $1 million Friday without bringing a response from her kidnapers.

Another 35,000 bags of free groceries worth some $300,000 at supermarket prices were distributed in the fourth day of the "People in Need" food program, set up by Hearst at the demand of the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnaped Patricia Hearst Feb. 4.

The Friday distribution brought the total retail value of food given away over the four days to more than $1 million, with an estimated 120,000 bags being handed out at distribution centers dotting low income districts of the San Francisco Bay Area.

But still there was no word from the SLA, which sent its last communication more than two weeks ago, in spite of pleas from Hearst and his wife, Catherine, and food program officials that the kidnapers keep in touch.

A spokesman for the Hearst family said donations from the public have reached nearly $100,000, ranging from a single $2,000 contribution to a number of $2 checks. He said all the donations are being held by Hearst because "he hasn't decided what to do" with them.

The lines at San Francisco distribution centers Friday were swollen because public transportation was shut down by a city employes' strike, preventing many persons from getting to work or school.

"I couldn't get to work because of the bus situation, so here I am," said one woman standing in line for the food which the SLA had demanded for the poor.

Dispersing race traffic a challenge to police, CHP

ONTARIO — For many, the real driving skills are displayed after the California 500 mile race.

Then, thousands of vehicles are funneled from parking lots surrounding the race track onto freeways, highways and city streets.

With the aid of highway patrolmen and city police, the 32,000 automobiles, pickups, campers and buses last year were dispersed within one hour and 40 minutes after the completion of the race.

"And the most important factor," said Capt. W. C. Jones of the California Highway Patrol, "is that we had no race-related accidents."

The flow of traffic, both going and coming, will be directed this Sunday by about 90 city police and 40 highway patrolmen.

"We have no indicaton of how big a crowd to expect so we plan for the maximum," said Jones. He will have 15 officers assigned to pre-race traffic and 19 for post-race traffic.

Inbound traffic kill be "free flowing" unless there is a need for "fixed posts." With spectators arriving at different times prior to the race, the traffic congestion is not so severe, noted Jones.

After the race, there will be a "free flow" of traffic onto the freeways until these become congested.

"Then a meter system will be employed where the rate of vehicles going onto the freeway can be spaced," he added.

Jones will operate a command post from the CHP helicopter, which will fly above the area's freeways. He will thus be able to deploy officers wherever a traffic problem may develop.

From his observation point, he will also be able to monitor the flow of traffic beyond Kellogg Hill. "We can follow outbound traffic to the San Gabriel River Freeway on the west and past Fontana on the east."

Extension of the Pomona Freeway into the Ontario area will assist the traffic flow this year. Traffic can be routed on Archibald, Haven and Milliken avenues. Other north-south streets to be used are Vineyard and Euclid avenues.

The major east-west routes are the San Bernardino and Pomona freeways, Foothill and Holt boulevards, and Fourth and G streets.

Officers at the Claremont station will be aided Sunday by patrolmen from both San Bernardino and Riverside areas.

Ontario police said they will employ 87 officers to aid in traffic controls. Many of these are off-duty policemen from Pomona, Fontana and Rialto. They will direct traffic around the speedway and along city streets.

Capt. Jones offered these suggestions for motorists:

—Plan to arrive early and return late. The speedway will open at 6 a.m. and various events are scheduled before the race. Bring water plus items to keep the children busy.

—Expect traffic delays on all routes to and from the speedway. Notify those at home the route you will take should an emergency arise.

—Inspect your car for proper mechanical condition. If a breakdown should occur, drive off the freeway for repairs.

—Because of the fuel shortage, have adequate fuel. There may be only a few service stations open in the area.

Strike also closes schools, affects hospitals

S.F. transit system halts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A strike involving 24,000 municipal employes crippled schools, hospitals and other services Friday, and halted a city transit system down to the last of its famed cable cars.

The strike's full effect was felt on its second day when cable car, bus and streetcar drivers refused to cross picket lines set up by four unions with 8,500 members who walked out in wage dispute.

Tens of thousands were unable to get to school or work. It was virtually impossible to get a taxicab. Traffic jams, already created by gasoline station lines, were made massive by extra cars on the street.

Business executives joined young people in attempting to hitchhike to their destinations.

Half the city's teachers did not report to work, and in junior and senior high schools only 10 per cent of students showed up.

About 40 per cent of elementary pupils arrived at class—even though half the city's 250 school buses, necessary mainly because of racial integration, were not operating.

However, the city's port and airport facilities functioned with little disruption other than a lack of janitors to clean public restrooms.

At the Laguna Honda Hospital, housing 1,200 aged patients, volunteers helped a short staff provide two, instead of the usual three, daily meals.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who is running for the Democratic nomination for governor with strong labor support, attempted to serve as mediator between the striking unions and the board of supervisors.

But Alioto has been unable to get the two sides together since Thursday. "Nobody has asked for any mediation," the mayor's spokesman said.

The striking unions represent service and miscellaneous employes seeking a $16 million package including flat increases of $960 a year and a fully paid dental plan. The Board of Supervisors has voted a $5 million package, providing boosts of 2 to 5 per cent.

In a separate dispute, the American Federation of Teachers struck in a bid for 15 per cent pay boosts. The school district has offered 6 per cent.

GAS BOTTLES ROLLING — Mission Boulevard at Campus Avenue in Ontario was blocked off for more than an hour Friday after a small foreign car and this welding supply truck collided broadside. The impact of the crash caused the truck to roll over on its top and threw more than a dozen gas bottles filled with explosive acetylene and oxygen over the highway. Firemen for a time feared an explosion and close the road.

Vice president at Tampa U.

Streakers strike again, Ask 'naked truth' from Ford

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — A glimpse of collegiate streakers breeted Vice President Gerald Ford at Tampa University Friday night, while fully clothed student pickets demanded "Impeach Nixon" and one young man asserted: "Tampa U streakers want the naked truth about Watergate."

A total of 125 demonstrators, including a half dozen young men who "streaked" out of the vice president's sight after his arrival, picketed Ford and waved the signs.

One placard read: "Tampa U streakers want the naked truth about Watergate."

An hour later, a half-dozen young men "streaked" nude across the campus near the student union building, a block from where Ford was speaking. A group of nine nude students then did calisthenics and played nude football near a men's dorm, around the corner from Ford, but far out of the vice president's view.

Police set up a cordon around the "playing field," and told reporters the streakers, who tied t-shirts arosnd their faces and heads, would not be arrested as long as they stayed within the roped area.

Earlier in the day in Miami, Ford termed the latest campus craze "kind of silly to tell you the truth."

In two evening appearances here, Ford decried the low public rating of Congress and President Nixon and said he had repeatedly urged Nixon to take a more open stance in his administration.

The vice president said the polls showed there has been a marked lessening of respect and esteem for politicians in general.

At the campus address and later at a fund-raising dinner for former U.S. Rep. Bill Cramer, R-Fla., Ford said the President had "bent over backwards" to cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee. He used the same phrase earlier in the day at a Miami Beach luncheon.

"There is an erosion of trust we once had in our political system," Ford said. "I have repeatedly urged more press conferences (for Nixon), more trips throughout the country away from Washington and New York City; I have repeatedly suggested an attitude of cooperation with the various committees of Congress (would) be beneficial."

In a luncheon address at St. Leo College in Miami Beach Ford concentrated on the congressional request for the White House tapes and documents pertinent to its impeachment investigation.

Ford said the President should supply any "relevant" information to the committee, but he stressed the materials requested should only be relevant to impeachable offenses outlined in the Constitution.

"I think the President has bent over backwards to meet the demands of the committee," Ford said.

16,000 Ford workers face layoff period

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. Friday said 16,000 workers at four assembly plants and seven parts and manufacturing plants face one and two-week layoffs during March because of the continued cutback in big-car production.

The layoffs were in line with previous plans by Ford to hold production this month to 185,000 cars, a 22 per cent drop from a year ago because of slumping big-car sales. By the end of March, Ford will have 15,375 workers on indefinite layoffs.

The Ford layoffs were less drastic than those announced Thursday by General Motors, which plans to shut 15 of its 22 U.S. car plants next week and eliminate second-shift operations at three plants by the end of the month. Some 56,000 GM workers will be idled next week with more than 60,000 on indefinite layoff.

American Motors Corp., which has been enjoying a sales boom because of its stress on small cars, also announced it was idling about 2,900 workers at its Milwaukee, Wis., body plant next week to cut back on production of its intermediate-size Matador and Ambassador models.

The move also will free badly needed parts for AMC's hotselling small cars, a company spokesman said.

In late February, the "Big Four" automakers had targeted production in March at 656,000 cars, but the latest GM layoffs may cause that figure to drop by more than 60,000. Instead of reaching first-quarter output of 1,832,000 cars, the industry may turn out only 1,762,000 cars—a drop of 35 per cent from a year ago.

Ford sales so far this year were off just under 22 per cent from last year's pace and the company's cutbacks haven't been as drastic as those at GM which has suffered a severe 34 per cent decline.

Crash spills gas bottles; road shut

ONTARIO — A welding supply truck carrying more than a dozen bottles of acetylene gas and oxygen collided broadside with a small foreign car Friday morning in the intersection of Campus Avenue and Mission Boulevard.

Police said the truck rolled after the initial impact throwing the highly flammable gas bottles over the westbound lanes of Mission Boulevard. Police, fearing the possibility of an explosion, blocked off the highway for more than an hour.

Victor Lawrence Silva, 24, of 4488 Los Serranos Ave., Chino, the driver of the Brown Welding Supply truck and Carl Alfred Allen, 48, of 6348 Lee Court, Chino, the driver of the car rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital for treatment of multiple injuries. Both were listed in fair condition.

Police said it appeared that the small car, going south on Campus Avenue collided with the truck westbound on Mission Boulevard. The truck, on impact, went into a skid and rolled over landing more than 150 west of the intersection. Silva was thrown out of the truck among the bottles of gas. Firemen reported that several of the gas bottles were leaking, but there was no fire.

Allen was pinned inside of his car.

Bail reduced for 2 accused in kidnaping

ATLANTA (UPI) — A federal judge Friday sharply reduced the bond of a man and wife accused in the kidnaping of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy and criticized the government's treatment of one of them.

The couple, building contractor William A.H. Williams, 33, his wife Betty, 26, pleaded innocent to extortion and other federal violations in the Feb. 20 abduction and $700,000 ransoming of Murphy.

U.S. District Judge Newell Edenfield extracted a promise from federal prosecutors that they would destroy a statement obtained from Williams and improve his jail conditions.

Edenfield reduced the bond for Williams from $1 million to $150,000 and that of his wife from $100,000 to $20,000, permitting her to go free on posting of 10 per cent, or $2,000 cash.

"The first thing I am going to do is go home and see my children," said Mrs. Williams, who with her husband was arrested a few hours after Murphy's release Feb. 22. "That's the only thing I am interested in right now."

Edenfield's criticism of government attorneys came after he was informed by Williams' lawyer, Tyrus R. Atkinson Jr., that the FBI had obtained a statement from Williams without his attorney present. He also charged that Williams was not permitted to use a telephone, mail letters, or receive visitors other than his counsel.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William P. Gaffney told Edenfield, who appeared visibly angered, that the statement would be destroyed and that his office would see that the jail restrictions were eased.

Rejected offer '72

Wallace says Demos wanted him as V.P.

MONTGOMERY, Alabama (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says the Democratic vice presidential nomination was offered to him in 1972, but he rejected it because he could not run on the party platform.

"(Sen. George) McGovern didn't come and talk to me personally," Wallace said in an exclusive interview with UPI, "but some important people came and offered me the vice presidency in exchange for my delegates.

"If I told you who they were you would know they were important. But I turned them down because I couldn't run on their platform."

Wallace carried 377 delegates to the 1972 convention and his aides have said Sen. Hubert Humphrey offered him the second spot in a "Stop McGovern" movement.

If McGovern had lost a challenge to the California delegation, Wallace would have held the votes the senator needed to assure himself a first ballot nomination.

McGovern won the challenge and the nomination.

Wallace maintains he is still undecided about 1976, but he would not rule out a fourth campaign for the presidency or the possibility he might accept the vice presidency.

Despite Wallace's statement, his national campaign staff is working to set up grassroots organizations in all 50 states. His staff estimates Wallace will take about 900 delegates to the 1976 Democratic convention, giving him a strong say over the nominee and the party platform.

Wallace said he is convinced "the next Democratic platform is going to be written by the people I represent."

There are Wallace representatives on all the major committees of the national Democratic party, and Wallace boasts that he has not had to make any deals to win his new acceptance within the party structure.

"I haven't made any concessions at all...I don't have to make any," he said. "They all want to be where I am because they realize I represent what the majority of the people in this country believe."

Witness describes YTS attack

ONTARIO — A prosecution witness has testified that he had had an "altercation" with a defendant in Youth Training School conspiracy trial three weeks before the witness and a group of Caucasian wards were allegedly beaten and stabbed by a group of Negro wards at the youth facility.

YTS ward Michael Anthony Rios taking the witness stand in the West Valley Superior Court tiral Thursday, told the jury that he and Henry Jackson, one of seven YTS wards accused of conspiring to attack a group of Caucasian wards on July 9, 1973, had had an argument three weeks before the youth facility incident.

Rios said Jackson pushed him during an argument over changing a television set channel in the recreation room of living units W and X.

Earlier Jackson, Alvin Todd, Gregory McCloud, Anthony R. Rixter, Donald M. Candler, Bertram Rogers and Marvin Kincy and their former counselor Stanley Wagstaff, 31, the defendants in the case, watched while Rios removed his shirt in front of the jury to show them three stab wound scars he had suffered in the July 9 incident.

Rios earlier testified that he saw a group of Negroes, including Jackson, Rogers, McCloud, Rixter, Kincy, and Todd, run into his living unit and begin fighting with a number of Caucasian wards. Rios said that a group of Negroes tackled him and he looked up to see Jackson sanding over him with a club fashioned from a soft backed chair arm. Rios said that later he found he had five or six lumps on his head, along with the stab wounds.

In cross-examination Rios was asked if he were aware of any racial strife between the Negro and Caucasian wards prior to the incident. Rios said that he had heard several other Caucasian wards talking about some "tension" between the two racial groups before.

Rios, questioned about his affiliation with any Caucasian gang or group at YTS, testified that he was a member of a Caucasian group called YBMB or "Your Brother, My Brother," but denied that he belonged to a neo Nazi group.

He disclaimed any knowledge of why the incident took place. An earlier prosecution witness, Glen Starr, testified that in his opinion the incident occurred because of the earlier altercation between Rios and defendant Jackson. Starr said that the Negro wards thought Rios was "trying to run things."

The trial was recessed Thursday until Monday when it will begin again.

Claremont expands sessions for summer grade schools

CLAREMONT — The school board has approved summer school this year at seven elementary schools instead of only four as in 1973.

Supt. R. S. Kirkendall reported that more than 600 children in the Claremont Unified School District attended summer school at four schools last year, and said he expects enrollment to increase because of the neighborhood concept.

Kirkendall explained that parents at pre-enrollment may select any school to send their children, and that the district will staff by pre-enrollment figures.

Summer school at elementary schools is scheduled for July 1 through July 26, 19 days.

Summmer school for intermediate students who will be in grades 7 and 8 in the fall has been slated at El Roble July 1 through July 26, with the priincipal to be selected from applicants within the district.

Mrs. Diane Stowell was named summer school principal at Claremont High June 17 through July 26, a total of 29 days.

In other actions, the board has accepted with regrets the surprise resignation of Ted Duncan, district child welfare and attendance officers since 1971, effective March 18.

Duncan will become business manager of the Millbrae School District, northwest of Burlingame.

Duncan joined the district in 1957 as assistant principal at Claremont High. He became business administrator in 1964.

The board approved an agreement between the district and Bridges Auditorium for use of the auditorium for the June 13 Claremont High commencement exercises. Expenses for graduation last year included a rental fee of $450. The basic rental fee this year is $350, but itemized charges raise the total to $660.75.

The board accepted the following gifts for the district:

— An NCR business machine for the high school business department from the City of Claremont.

— Gifts amounting to $87 from various Condit parents for purchase of books for the school library.

— A gift of $30 from the Kay Knight, Fred Schmandl and David Yarberry families for a world atlas for the Claremont High library in memory of Linda Stephens, former high school student.

Rocks shower police car at water line break

UPLAND — A three-inch rock shot into the air by a stream of water from a cracked water main, shattered the window of a police car Thursday afternoon.

Officer Douglas Bare was dispatched to Mountain Avenue and 13th Street after a car had knocked a fire hydrant loose, sending a stream of water spewing 50 feet in the air.

As Bare drove closer, the police unit was suddenly pelted with rocks. One hit the police car's windshield with such force, it shattered. Bare ducked down in the front seat and carefully backed the car out the shower of rocks.

Bare said that some of the rocks on the ground where the fire hydrant had been severed shot into the air 50 to 75 feet. Several other motorists on Mountain Avenue reported that rocks had hit their cars. The Upland Department of Water turned off the water and repaired the break.

According to police reports Mary Constance Mango, 54, of 1646 Lakewood Ave., Upland, was northbound on Mountain Avenue in her car when a front tire blew. She lost control of the car and it rammed into the fire hydrant. Bare said that Mrs. Mango moved her car away from the hydrant so it wouldn't be hit by the flying rocks.

Walnut school chief elated by bond vote

WALNUT — School district Supt. David L. Brown is delighted voters have approved a $5 million bond issue for new classroom construction.

District voeters Tuesday gave a nearly 3-to-1 approval of the bond issue. The funds will be put together with state funds of more than $10 million to finance building of new elementary, intermediate, and high school classrooms over the next five years.

"I know I speak on behalf of the Board of Trustees and the staff of this district in expressing great satisfaction with the outcome of the election," Brown declared. "One of the most important aspects of this election is the focus it places on citizen participation, effort, and success.

Wounded in his home

Man identifies suspect as burglar who shot him

POMONA — State correctional officer David L. Wells has identified Ronald Leonard Gardner as the man who shot him twice when Wells walked in during a burglary of his own home Jan. 8.

The identification came during Gardner's preliminary hearing Thursday in Pomona Municipal Court where he was charged with burglary and assault with a deadly weapon.

The hearing, before Judge James H. Piatt, concluded with Piatt ordering Gardner, 30, to answer the charges here in Superior Court March 21.

Wells, who lives near Claremont, said Gardner shot him when he returned home and found Gardner inside. The defendant used a gun taken from a nightstand next to Wells' bed, the 63-year-old correctional lieutenant said.

Wells was founded in his left lung area by one .38-caliber bullet and suffered powder burns on his right side when the second shot was fired. He spent five days in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit and two more in general care. He still is receiving treatment as the result of being wounded, he testified.

Wells, the only prosecution witness, said that when he and his wife returned to their home he found the rear screen door cut and a glass window pane in the door broken. He said he opened the door and shouted for anyone inside to leave. Then he asked his wife, Alberta, to go to a neighbor's house and call police.

Then, when he saw the front door open, Wells said, he entered the house. Again he yelled for anyone inside to leave and was walking down a hallway when a figure stepped from a bedroom and put the pistol within two inches of his face.

Wells said the intruder, whom he said was Gardner, said "I'll . . ." and Wells grabbed his gun hand. He said they struggled and the gun fired twice. Finally, Wells said, he managed to force the intruder to drop the gun and the man fled. Wells went outside as a neighbor ran up and then he collapsed on the ground.

During the hearing it was revealed that Gardner, of 2411 Marywood St., Pomona, was a parolee from the California Rehabilitation Center for narcotics addicts at Corona where Wells is employed. No connection was made between those two facts during the hearing, however.

Eleanor Cohen in Claremont council contest

CLAREMONT — Eleanor Cohen, Planning Commission member and vice chairman of the Claremont Coordinating Council, has announced her candidacy in the special City Council election June 4.

Mrs. Cohen, mother of two, was the only person to take out nomination papers Thursday, the first day of the special election campaign to replace attorney Craig McManigal who resigned last Dec. 31 because of the new state disclosure of assets law.

Mrs. Cohen ran unsuccessfully in the 1972 City Council election campaign and finished 220 votes vehind winner Frank Hungerford in an election which drew 48 per cent of the voters to the polls.

She said she feels that because of her Planning Commission, coordination council and environmental task force experience, she is well qualified for the position.

Former Mayor Ed Malan is Mrs. Cohen's campaign manager. Stan Larson is her finance director.

Candidates have until noon March 28 to file their nomination papers. Such papers must contain at least 20 but not more than 30 signatures of valid Claremont voters.

Recorded dialogue of death to be played at trial

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — "God, Dave Smith, don't. No, no don't. Please don't."

Those were the last words Nicholas G. Kyreacos uttered.

David Therron Smith, 32, is on trial here accused of murdering Kyreacos, 26.

Smith was a city detective at the time Kyreacos was slain. He was fired from the police department shortly after being charged with first-degree murder.

Kyreacos, a waiter in one of the city's posh restaurants, had kept his rendezvous with death, wired for sound. He had a tape recorder hidden in his clothing and was in touch with a friend by walkie-talkie.

Judge David C. Hunter ruled during a pretrial hearing that the taped recording of Kyreacos' meeting with his killer could be admitted as evidence. It is expected to be played for the jury during Smith's trial which began this week.

The prosecution says it will show that Kyreacos died of multiple gunshot wounds last Nov. 20 in a parking lot near a downtown bank where smith was working off duty as a security officer.

The prosecution says Kyreacos was lured there by a woman who said she had information about the death of another waiter, Branko Ellich, who had worked with Kyreacos. Ellich was shot to death last Nov. 10 as he was about to unlock the front door of his home in Seattle's Ballard District.

But Kyreacos did not keep the appointment in the alley unprepared. He went to a ballard store and purchased a tape recorder and then asked a neighbor to accompany him downtown. The neighbor said Kyreacos placed the recorder in the small of his back and ran the microphone cord through his shirt and clipped it to his undershirt.

When the tape was found, police placed it in a safedeposit box.

Here is what was taped:

Smith: "Hold, it Nick. Hold it right there."

Kyreacos: "Hey. Cop chasing me. Dave Smith."

(Shot fired, sound of running, walkie talkie falls to the ground.)

Smith: "Hold it."

Kyreacos: "All right."

Smith: "OK, Nick. Back around here, come on."

Kyreacos: "What's the deal?"

Smith: "You know what the deal is. Try one thing, baby, you have had it."

Kyreacos: "What's the charge, huh?"

Smith: "Try it, Nick."

Kyreacos: "You got a charge?"

Smith: "Right."

Kyreacos: "What?"

Smith: "We'll get a charge."

Kyreacos: "What? If you wanted me, why didn't you come to see me?"

Smith: "Because, I'll tell you why."

(Shots fired.)

Kyreacos: "God, Dave Smith, don't. No, no don't. Please don't."

Sober thoughts on scientists

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The highlight, for me, of the recent convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in San Francisco was a bartender's lament that scientists are lousy customers because they take so long to make up their minds about what drink to order.

"It takes scientists 2½ times as long as anyone else to decide what they're going to drink," said Philip Foley, bartender at the Hilton Hotel where the 4,000 longheads gathered. "That's what happens when you have a thinking population at a bar. No business."

It's not surprising, of course. When you have spent the afternoon discussing the genetics of reactions of drosophila to light and gravity, it is hard to snap out a quick decision on whether you want your martini up or on the rocks.

"Yes, sir, what'll it be?" asks Foley, putting a cocktail napkin in front of Nobel Prize-winning physicist Dr. Heinrich von Strudelmann who has just straddled a bar stool.

"Er . . . uh—what did you say?" asks the scientist. He has been deeply engrossed in a lecture on "Signaling and Control at the Lymphocyte Surface."

What's your pleasure, Doc?"

"Er—a spherical nucleus surrounded by a thin layer of nongranular cytoplasm."

"Gee, prof. I don't think that one's in the Bartender's Handbook. How about a nice daiquiri?"

"A daiquiri? What is in that?"

"Rum. Delicious drink." He reaches for the bottle.

"No, I think I'll have a gin and tonic."

"You're the doc, Doc. Want that tall?"

"No, I think maybe I'll just have a Scotch and soda."

"Scotch and soda, right," says Foley wearily. He rattles ice into the glass.

"No—wait. Make that a glass of beer. I don't want to miss Dr. Bardacke's lecture on molecular immunology."

In the time that it took the eminent scientist to order a beer, he could have whipped up a batch of lysergic acid diethylamide in his laboratory.

Foley's remarks were not the result of a scientific survey, of course, but merely observations such as bartenders make of their customers. It would have been interesting to have him do a more in-depth study to compare the disciplines. Can an etymologist make up his mind quicker than a geologist? Do most physicists favor a four-to-one martini? Do astrologists drink more than archeologists? Can ophthalmologists lick any man in the house?

Beef men to stage sale to show market prices too high

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stung by losses of $150 to $200 for every steer they sent to slaughter, a group of Iowa beef producers said today they plan to stage a beef sale in New York next week to show consumers current supermarket beef prices are 15 per cent too high in view of prices cattlemen are getting.

Harlan Hummell, a Hawarden, Iowa, businessman, said 40,000 pounds of Iowa beef from 70 head of cattle would be shipped to New York to be retailed under arrangements to be made soon in cooperation with the National Consumer Congress.

The target date for the special demonstration sale is March 15, Hummell and others in a delegation from Sioux County, Iowa, told newsmen here. The beef will be priced by starting with the cost of the meat after it is slaughtered in a Sioux County packing house. Then, the cattlemen will add transportation costs and a "nominal" allowance of $25 per steer to represent supermarket costs and profits at levels they consider fair.

"It will come out about 15 per cent cheaper than today's retail prices," estimated Glenn Gregg, president of the Cattlemen's Association in Sioux County which is one of the nation's largest cattle producing centers.

Remember the boy at the zoo who wanted to know if the hippopotamus was male or female and the keeper's reply: "It doesn't make a bit of difference except to another hippopotamus."

Today's hand gave expert South an undeserved top in a regional open pairs, but is only of interest to another duplicate player since four spades is ice cold.

Opening lead—♥9

South made an overtrick as a result of a bad third-hand-high play by East. The result is unimportant in rubber bridge, but the principle involved is important. Sometimes the trick lost by the bad play will be the contract trick.

West didn't have any attractive opening lead and finally selected the nine of hearts. Doubleton leads have been known to work out but this one didn't.

Declarer called for dummy's queen. East who had been taught both to play third-hand-high and to-cover-an-honor-with-an-honor put up his king. Declarer won; drew trumps; eventually dicarded his three of clubs on dummy's last heart and made five odd.

East had an automatic play of a low heart. His partner had clearly led top of nothing. The king if held back would eventually be able to stop dummy's fourth heart from scoring a trick and South would have wound up making just four spades for an average score.

Woman was head of jewel theft gang

LONDON (UPI) — A 75-year-old Frenchwoman known as "The Godmother" controlled a gang of Continental jewel thieves who stole $69,000 worth of gems from stores in three months, the prosecutor said at Old Bailey Thursday.

A telephone call warned her when three of the gang were arrested last October and she vanished from a hotel in London's King's Cross district, he said.

Prosecutor David Jeffreys said the Godmother presided over daily conferences at the hotel, and briefed the gang about their targets. At night the gang returned to the hotel to report.

The three sentenced Thursday, all from Marseilles, were scrap dealer Jean Maurice Lombard, 32, his common law wife Paulette Cheicrya Nianzi, 24, and Christian Pierre Francois Barras.

Lombard pleaded guilty to stealing three diamond rings worth more than $39,000 and was jailed for two years. Nianzi and Barras admitted being involved in two of the thefts and were ordered to leave England within 48 hours and not to return for at least five years.

Judge Brian Grant said none of the rings involved in the charges had been recovered. "These offenses were deliberately planned and well executed," he said.

Jeffrey described the gang as "Common Market crooks," because they used the new regulations over passports between European countries which allowed them easy access to Britain, with few documents except a French passport.

The three were trapped when a woman assistant noticed a distinctive watch Lombard was wearing and unusual silver colored shoes worn by Nianzi when they visited a store in the West Ends Regent Street.

Gubernatorial campaign costs told

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's gubernatorial campaign has already cost political contributors ranging from Howard Hughes to a pair of Burbank meat tenderizers more than $2.9 million, state records showed today.

Democratic San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto apparently raised the largest sum—at least $649,229—during the reporting period which ended Dec. 31, 1973, a full six months before the June primary election. He spent $413, 057.

With nearly all the campaign finance statements on file, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., also a Democrat, held down the second spot among the candidates with contributions of $637,584 and expenditures of $208,898.

Lawrence Deutsch and Lloyd Rigler, owners of Adolph's Ltd., the Burbank tenderizer business, forked over to Brown's campaign $56,000 in contributions and a $25,000 loan.

Petra Marketing Corp. of Los Angeles, in which Brown's father—the former governor— has a heavy interest, gave $21,000.

Brown also reported a $200 contribution in 1971 from the Newport Beach law firm of President Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, who recently pleaded guilty to violating federal campaign laws.

Kalmbach was under investigatio by Brown in connection with the use of presidential campaign funds.

Another member, Frank DeMarco Jr., of the firm of Kalmbach, DeMarco, Knapp and Chillingsworth, is currently being investigated by Brown in connection with the alleged backdating of the deed giving Nixon's vice presidential papers to the National Archives.

Tom Quinn, a top Brown aide, said the firm bought two tickets to a fund-raising dinner in 1971, prior to the current investigation.

Quinn said he could not remember specific details about the purchase.

The Kalmbach firm was also listed as a $300 contributor to the campaign of Republican Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who reported contributions of $284,352 and expenditures of $266,216.

Howard Hughes gave $300 to Flournoy and a like amount to Democratic Rep. Jerome Waldie of Antioch. Waldie's main campaign committee reported receiving $283,130 and spending $263,767.

Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke declared he received $267,015 and spent $236,406, including a $53,200 loan from Rohr Corp. and an $11,500 contribution from one of its executives Burt Raynes, who now supports Reinecke's rival, Flournoy.

Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti reported contributions of $502,056, including $37,500 from George Joseph, a wealthy Los Angeles businessman. Moretti reported no spending.

Democrat Herb Hafif, a Claremont attorney, loaned $99,000 to his own campaign which had contributions of $173,710 and expenditures of $175,456.

San Francisco millionaire William Matson Roth also helped to finance hhis own Democratic election bid with $118,648 out of $161,997 in contributions. He spent $152,369.

Alioto received more than $120,000 from organized labor and $1,000 from C. Arnholt Smith of San Diego, a heavy backer of President Nixon.

Brown's contributors included John "Jake the Barber" Factor of Los Angeles, a prohibition era exconvict turned philanthropist. He gave $10,500.

Joan Palevsky, the ex-wife of millionaire Max Palevsky of Los Angeles, chipped in $33,250.

The Condor, a topless San Francisco night spot, gave $200 to Brown, the only gubernatorial candidate who is a bachelor.

Was offered VP nomination--Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Alabama (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace says some "important people" offered him the Democratic vice presidential nomination in 1972 but he rejected it because of the party platform.

(Sen. George) McGovern didn't come and talk to me personally," Wallace said in an exclusive interview with UPI, "but some important people came and offered me the vice presidence in exchange for my delegates.

"If I told you who they were you would know they were important. But I turned them down because I couldn't run on their platform."

Wallace said again he has not made up his mind about 1976, but he would not rule out a fourth bid for the presidency or the possibility he might accept the vice presidency.

Wallace carried 377 delegates to the national convention in 1972 and aides said Sen. Hubert Humphrey offered him the second spot in a "Stop McGovern" movement.

Wallace could have held the balance of power if a challenge to the California delegation had robbed McGovern of the votes he needed for a first ballot victory.

McGovern won the challenge and the nomination.

Despite Wallace's disclaimers, his national campaign staff is working to establish grassroots organizations in every state.

His aides currently predict Wallace could carry 900 delegates to the 1976 Democratic convention, possibly giving him the balance of power over the nomination and the party platform.

Wallace said he is convinced the next Democratic platform "is going to be written by the people I represent."

Wallace is represented on all the standing committees of the National Democratic Party, but he said he has not made any deals to win his new acceptance within the party structure.

"I haven't made any concessions at all ... I don't have to make any," he said. "They all want to be where I am because they realize I represent what the majority of the people in this country believe."

"I'm not in a straining position, I've already given them the message."

Wallace, who is paralyzed from the waist down because of an assassination attempt that took him out of the 1972 presidential campaign, said he is going to run a vigorous campaign to win re-election to a third term as governor.

He is heavily favored to win over token opposition, keeping alive the base of power he used to launch three previous presidential campaigns.

Patient sues doctors, claims sponge in body

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — A man who said doctors at the UCLA Medical Center left a sponge in his body after an operation filed a $250,000 Superior Court suit Thursday against the university.

Peter H. Peckham, 48, San Diego, said he accidentally discovered the sponge lodged in his back while looking at an xray a month after the 1972 operation.

Three doctors performed the surgery.

ROAD-HAZARD GUARANTEE
. . . No Time or Mileage Limit
Because of their extra strength and durability, all Goodness passenger tires are guaranteed against any failure—including blowouts, rim cuts, bruises, and defects in workmanship or material (except repairable punctures, run flats, etc., etc.).
Unlike a 4day warranty with a specific mileage minimum, this remarkable Goodness Tire Guarantee is for the full tread life, without limit as to mileage, if you know what that means. What it means is that when the tire wears out the guarantee is no good. Though it sounds great it's vague enough so you can't quite tell what you're entitled to if you have a tire problem.
THE GOODNESS TIRE COMPANY

Are you on Slippery Sam's mailing list?

Getting something for nothing.

Now there's a wishful dream as old as mankind.

Everybody wants to believe it. Some even fall for it.

So, for those people who believe in Santa Claus, a secret-password genuine authentic everybody-gets-one special tire discount card with your name on it to carry in your wallet is irresistible.

No matter if it came in an envelope addressed to a mailing list of everybody on both sides of the street for seven miles in any direction.

Or if your employer was fast talked into accepting one for each employee, in the wishful belief that somehow he's adding to your fringe benefits.

There are a half dozen different variations of this devious device.

But never mind how you received the card. Does it save you any money?

Well, how much can you trust a firm that uses trickery to make you think you're receiving a personal discount not available to the general public?

You can test this by buying tires from this dealer just as if you're an ordinary innocent citizen who happened to stop in without a card.

Then, after your new tires have been mounted and you're handed your bill, flash your secret discount card and see how much money it saves you.

An even better test is to compare Slippery Sam's prices with our cash & carry prices.

The argument ends right there.

Or how about the valve stem game?

There's one extra charge that we consider totally unnecessary.

When you buy a new car, it comes equipped with rubber valve stems.

The rubber is designed to deteriorate at the same rate as the tire. You must buy a new valve stem every time you buy a new tire.

Right there is an extra 85c to $1.35 per tire.

Is that a safety precaution? We don't think so.

When we sell a new tire, first we check the old valve stem to see if it needs replacing. Often it doesn't.

But if it does, we offer you a steel valve stem for $1.25. It never wears out.

Or, we'll sell you rubber stems for 50c each.

They won't wear out either. They're made from EPDM synthetic rubber, which is ozone resistant, and will never crack.

If you do have to replace a valve stem, don't accept the conventional rubber type which will automatically need replacing again when the tire is replaced.

Insist on steel, for $1.25; or EPDM, for 50c.

Take your choice:

You might be interested in the little known theory that "Epdm" is a word derived from the Eskimo meaning,

"How'd things go at the office today, Umluk?"

That's the greeting supposed to have been given to a tired dog sled driver by his wife as he returned home late one afternoon to his little white igloo just as she was eating a steaming mouthful of boiled walrus blubber. She very distinctly said, "Epdm!"

Others insist that EPDM is the chemical designation for ethylene-propylene-diene-monomer. We lean toward this one.

Watch out for those extras

When you buy tires at 4day, we're happy to show you all our prices.

No extras. (Except state sales tax, which nobody can escape).

We do that because it's to our advantage to have you compare our 4day prices with prices anywhere else.

We already know we undersell. You have to find it out.

But keep your guard up when comparing prices.

Watch out for the little extra charges that you don't find out about until the tires are on your car and you're ready to drive out.

-Extra charge because your take-off tire isn't acceptable.

Some dealers use the "exchange price" device.

They quote you a selling price that requires you to trade in your old tire.

Here's the catch. If they say it doesn't look good enough to be worth retreading, the original price quote is off and now you have to pay a little extra.

Not at 4day. Our price is the same whether you leave your tire or take it home with you for a pet.

-Extra charge for mounting.

A few dealers still get away with saying the price they quoted was for the tire only, and they fail to mention that there's a charge for mounting.

We do it the other way around. We give you an extra discount if you wish to mount it yourself.

The point is, when we quote you a price it includes the mounting charge, except on cash & carry.

We don't spring it on you after the tires are mounted.

-Extra charge for guarantee.

Some dealers quote an incomplete price by making you buy the guarantee separately. Even then, they usually don't guarantee any minimum number of miles.

Our 4day guarantee is included in the prices we quote, with a minimum number of miles on every tire we sell, unless you prefer to buy at the cash-&-carry price.

And our guarantee even covers run-flats.

-Extra charge for "free" alignment.

Some dealers pick up an extra buck by giving you "free" alignment that often winds up costing you from $5 to $50.

Most wheels don't need alignment. Therefore we don't consider free alignment much of a gift for someone who doesn't need it.

For those who do need it, if there are extra alignment charges above and beyond the free part, who's doing what to whom?

SERVICE RECOGNIZED — Carl H. Lorbeer, left, receives a Paul Harris Fellow certificate from Harry J. McBeth, president of the Pomona Rotary Club.

Lorbeer, 50-year Rotary member, receives award

POMONA — Carl H. Lorbeer of Pomona, who has attended a Rotary Club meeting every week for 50 years, is the recipient of Rotary International's Paul Harris Fellow award.

Harris was the founder of Rotary International. The international has a foundation which sponsors fellowships for graduate, undergraduate and foreign study.

Upon contributing $1,000 into the foundation endowment fund, a club may present a Paul Harris Fellow Award to a member in recognition of service.

Pomona Rotary Club paid the $1,000 and presented the Fellow Award to Lorbeer on Feb. 22, in recognition of his club and community service. The presentation was made at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Casey in Claremont. It included a certificate, a gold medallion and a Paul Harris lapel pin.

In addition to his 50-year record of Rotary Club service, Lorbeer has an impressive record of community involvement. In February, he was re-elected to his eighth term as president of the Pomona Cemetery Association. He served many years as president of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District.

He served on the Pomona school board for 18 years, 11 years as president, retiring in 1963. A junior high bears his name.

Lorbeer served on the YMCA board. In 1962 he was presented the La Verne College Community Builder Award because he "graciously combined high executive leadership with humble service."

He helped establish Mt. San Antonio College in 1946, and in 1955 was cited by college administrators for his outstanding service to the college.

Lorbeer has given many years service in Pilgrim Congregational Church.

In 1949 he retired after 45 years service with the Associated Telephone Co. He was graduated from Pomona College in 1906, and in his youth was a runner.

UCLA, SC in title duel

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — It has been so long since the Pacific-8 Conference has had a title-deciding showdown basketball game, it's hard to believe there really is one tonight at the Sports Arena.

For once, UCLA hasn't got its Pac-8 crown all locked up waiting for its first game in the Bruin Invitational, which is also known as the NCAA Tournament.

Cross-town rival USC has matched the mighty Bruins for the season and in Pac-8 play to put everything on the line in tonight's regular season finale, which is being shown on nationwide television.

Tipoff if 8:40 p.m. with KTLA (Channel 5) carrying the action live and again later on tape at 10:35 p.m.

Both the Bruins and Trojans are 22-3 for the campaign and 11-2 in Pac-8 competition. UCLA, rated third in this week's national rankings, has lost to Notre Dame, Oregon State and Oregon while seventh-rated USC fell to Utah, Washington State and UCLA, 65-54, in the first meeting at Pauley Pavilion.

Naturally, the Bruins are favored to win their eighth consecutive Pac-8 crown and stay alive for an eighth straight national title. Oddsmakers pick UCLA by four or six points depending on which one you follow.

While winning championships is old hat for UCLA, tonight's showdown is a new experience for the Trojans, who are seeking their first conference title since 1961.

Tonight's winner will advance into the NCAA Western REgionals at Tucson, Ariz. next Thursday against either Cal State Los Angeles or Dayton while the loser will be invited to the new Collegiate Commissioners Association Tournament in St. Louis. UCLA has indicated it wouldn't be interested in the St. Louis trip but USC would probably accept a berth in the runner-up tourney.

It is time for UCLA to wake up and live up to its reputation. The Bruins are usually at their best when post-season tournament time arrives and most basketball experts feel coach John Wooden's club will shake up its lethargic play which was evident in the double losses in Oregon.

"I don't know what's been wrong with us," UCLA All-American forward Keith Wilkes said, "but I think we can put it together again. I think it's kind of exciting. It's a good experience for us to be where we are because it's so different."

USC has won eight in a row since its 11-point loss at Pauley Pavilion. Coach Bob Boyd's Trojans were ahead 46-40 in that one when the Bruins shot past them with 14 consecutive points.

"If we're ever going to beat the Bruins in my time at USC, this is our best chance," Trojan center Mike Westra said.

This is the first time since 1964 that the Pac-8 race has come down to a showdown battle.

"I predicted at the start of the season that the conference championship would come down to the last game with USC," Wooden commented. "But, to be truthful, I felt that they would need a win to tie us. I didn't think it would come down to one game."

"We have to take care of the ball against UCLA," Boyd added, "and take the high percentage shots. We did that in our first game and came close."

A loss tonight would probably mean the conclusion of the Walton Gang era as seniors Bill Walton, Wilkes, Greg Lee and Tommy Curtis are nearing the end of their collegiate careers.

Walton, who is near certain to be college basketball's Player of the Year for the third time, has led UCLA to an 82-3 mark but this season's team hasn't been the powerhouse of the previous two.

USC has been successful behind its new high-low post passing offense, which stresses patience and the 15-foot shot. Guards Gus Williams and Dan Anderson are the Trojan leaders.

Even though USC is at home tonight in the Sports Arena, UCLA holds the advantage. The Bruins have won 19 games in a row at the Arena and 16 consecutive over the Trojans on their home court.

Boyd has been able to beat Wooden twice at Pauley Pavilion but never at the Sports Arena.

An upset win tonight would make up for the many frustrating nights.

Showdown in NCAA

By United Press International

With seven-time defending champion UCLA and No. 1 North Carolina State still uncertain of berths in this year's NCAA basketball tournament, the rest of the nation's hopefuls began early vying for the national crown in regional play Friday from New York to Pocatello, Idaho.

The Bruins of coach John Wooden, who have made a monopoly of the NCAA for nearly a decade now, must get by Southern California tonight in order to land the Pacific Eight Conference's berth in the NCAA. But at Pocatello, the far west regional will be getting underway with late-blooming Dayton (19-7) meeting Los Angeles State (179) and Idaho State (20-7) facing 16th rated New Mexico (20-6).

Dayton, on the basis of its season's-end upset of second-ranked Notre Dame, must be considered the favorite over L.A. State, which landed the Pacific Coast Athletic Association only because league champion Long Beach State is on probation. As for the other game, Idaho State coach Jim Killingsworth summed it up thus: "We won't try to run with New Mexico. I don't think we can. We're plodders and if we get out of our style of play, we're in trouble."

In the midwest regional at North Denton, Tex., Southwest Conference champ Texas, despite its overall 12-14 mark, meets No. 18 Creighton after Syracuse, an at-large eastern transplant, takes on Oral Roberts in the opener. Creighton (21-5), which was stunned by 11th-rated South Carolina in its final home game, will floor the tallest of the four teams. In addition to 7-foot Mike Heck, the Blue Jays also feature a 6-7 guard in Ralph Bobik.

The mideast regionals at Terre Haute, Ind. feature of the nation's top 10 teams in No. 2 Notre Dame and No. 9 Marquette—both of which suffered season end upset losses. The second-ranked Irish (24-2), buoyed by the All America selection of center John Shumate but still smarting from the 97-82 licking they took from Dayton in the final game of the regular season, take on Ohio Valley Conference titleist Austin Peay (19-7). The Governors are led by hot-shooting James "Fly" Williams, who boasts a 27.5 points per game average.

Claremont kickers fall in CIF final

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

TORRANCE — South Torrance outhustled and outmuscled Caremont High Friday to post a 4-2 victory in the finals of the CIF soccer competition.

It marked the second straight year that Claremont had advanced to the finals only to lose to a Torrance based school. Last season the Wolfpack dropped a 2-1 decision to West Torrance.

The first half was an aggressively played period and was dominated by Claremont until the final five minutes. The 'Pack surprised South by coming out running and outhustled the Spartans for the ball.

Jesner DoCarmo opened the scoring in the contest with a goal at the 16-minute mark of the opening half.

DoCarmo got the ball at midfield, faked-out a couple of Spartan defenders, and raced down the left side. When a few steps from goalie Jim Vaughn, DoCarmo fired away and hit the far right corner of the net for the score.

South tied things up late in the first half on a goal by Jim Allen.

Jesus Chavez accidentaly touched the ball with his hand outside the 'Pack goal. Allen of the Spartans was awarded a free kick, and his shot curled past a wall of Wolfpack defenders and eluded goalie Casey Roberts.

Unfortunately for Claremont's CIF hopes, South came out strong in the second half, while the 'Pack seemed sluggish.

Seven minutes into the second half, Ron Saldana of South booted home a goal past 'Pack goalie Roberts to put South ahead 2-1.

Slightly less than two minutes later, Fernando Arevalo was awarded a penalty kick following a skirmish in front of the Claremont goal. He succeeded in getting his shot past Roberts and South led 3-1.

Lancers delayed in bid for a CIF playoff title

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B STaff Writer

AZUSA — Elsinore will play Atascadero, a 72-53 victor over Tehachapi Saturday, March 16 at the Los Angeles Sports Arena in the finals of the CIF 1-A basketball playoffs but Western Christian is No. 1 in the eyes of coach Les Holstein and the Lancer fans.

"It's been a tremendous season," said a poised Holstein. "They're a tremendous group of young Christian men that played their hearts out every game as individuals and as a team," assessed the Lancer skipper, who's sentiments were echoed by assistant coach Jon Morrison, while being mobbed with "congratulations on a fine game and season," from the Lancer fans.

Except for the scoreboard, it was almost unnoticeable that Western Christian had come up on the short end of a 64-58 decision to Elsinore in the semi-finals of the 1-A playoffs before a standing-room only crowd at Azusa High.

The game was billed to be exciting as the No. 1 and 3 ranked teams in the 1-A polls met head-on with both having long winning streaks at stake.

And exciting it became as neither team led by more than five points throughout the see-saw battle!

Western's Bruce Sider opened the fourth quarter with a bucket to tie the game at 48-48 with Elsinore's Ken Thurman putting the Tigers right back on top with a hoop.

Sider, who finished his prep career with 14 points, again knotted the game at 50-all with a basket. But Elsinore's Andre Royal, who had a game-high 20 points, hit a pair of field goals to give the visitors a four-point lead, 54-50, with 5:49 to play.

The Lancers, who wind up the year with a 24-3 slate, bounded back to tie the contest again on two-pointers by center Sam Shumaker and forward Jim Sigler.

Royal put the Tigers back on top, 56-54, with a hoop with 4:42 remaining.

Western's Norm Moline tied the game — again — on a layup only to have Royal tally four straight points to give Elsinore a 60-56 lead.

Lancer fans then got the break they'd been waiting for. Elsinore center John Greer, a 6-5 sophomore, fouled out with 3:04 to play after having scored 18 points, all underneath, and grabbing 19 rebounds.

But the break turned into a wipe-out.

Without their dominating center, the Tigers went into a stall in an attempt to keep Western from taking advantage of the situation.

The Lancers stole the ball from the stalling visitors three straight times but failed to score.

Shumaker kept Western close with a bucket to make the score 60-58 with 1:38.

But with time running out and Elsinore operating from a four-corner scrambling ball control offense, the Lancers, in desperation, elected to give away an intentional foul.

Unfortunately, the hosts only committed two in the second half so they had to committ three straight fouls, which ate up valuable time, in order to get Elsinore to the foul line.

But the move didn't pan out.

Guard Lennie White converted both free throws, with 12 seconds left to lock up Elsinore's 27th consecutive victory.

Rain causes chaos for Valley baseball and track schedules

Rain again kept the valley high school and college baseball and track teams inactive Friday, with most of the contests being rescheduled for next week.

Seven high school baseball games and two junior college contests had to be planned for another date, along with three junior college track meets.

Three of the seven prep baseball games are rescheduled for Monday afternoon at 3:15 p.m., with Bonita hosting Northview, San Dimas visiting Mountain View, and Upland entertaining Norte Vista.

The Damien-Edgewood and the Azusa-Chino battles have been moved to Wednesday afternoon at Edgewood and Chino highs.

Montclair and Alta Loma were still unable Friday to secure a new date for their game, and the same holds true with Chaffey's contest with West Covina.

Among colleges, Mt. San Antonio College and Citrus College had not set up a new date to play by Friday afternoon.

The Bonita-Upland and Walnut-Rowland contests which were scheduled for today were also postponed. Upland will host Bonita Thursday, and Walnut will entertain Rowland next Saturday.

In track, MSAC will compete in a non-scoring dual meet with Citrus Monday at the Mounties' facilities at 3 p.m. The South Coast Conference Relays at San Diego Mesa have been reset for Tuesday, but MSAC coach Don Ruh indicated that the Mounties would not attend the Relays if their meet with Citrus is run Monday.

Chaffey's track meet with San Bernardino Walley College has also been tentatively rescheduled for Monday afternoon. Citrus' confrontation with Saddleback has been moved to Friday, creating three meets in one day at Citrus.

In high school track scheduled for today, the Foothill Relays at Citrus College have been postponed until next Saturday.

The Kingsmen Relays at Cal Lutheran College, which included Claremont-Mudd, La Verne and Azusa Pacific colleges, were cancelled today and will not be rescheduled.

Finley releases Dick Williams

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley Friday night released former Manager Dick Williams from his contract, permitting him to join any club except the New York Yankees.

Finley said in a telephone interview from his office in Chicago that his action had the approval of U.S. District Judge Lloyd Burke who ruled in San Francisco only three weeks ago Williams could not manage any other team until his current contract expired in 1975.

"I am not a vindictive person," Finley said.

The owner said he had notified Williams of his decision and "Dick seemed most appreciative and thanked me."

ONLY A 10-GALLON LIMIT?

Mario Andretti, sitting in his No. 11 Viceroy Special, finds waiting in line for gasoline isn't all that exciting. This car actually runs on a gas-consuming Vega engine. The car he'll be driving Sunday in the California 500 will run on methanol fuel and will average about 1.8 miles per gallon.

Cal 500 pick: It's all A.J.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — If popular opinion decided the winner, A. J. Foyt would be the champion of the fifth annual California 500.

Almost every competitor in this Sunday's race at Ontario Motor Speedway points to A. J., the winningest driver in United States Auto Club history, as the man to beat.

Foyt captured the pole position last Saturday by running a two-lap average of 190.617 miles per hour in his 1973 remodeled Coyote-Foyt. Then he simply outran the rest of the field in the first of the two Twin 100 qualifying races Sunday, winning the 40-lap event with an average speed of 176.873 miles per hour.

Not only that, but he also held the fastest speed in practice for three of the four days at OMS.

"It'll really be no contest if he (Foyt) can finish the race," analyzed George Bignotti, chief mechanic for the Patrick Racing team which claims drivers Wally Dallenbach and Gordon Johncock.

"To reach the ultimate in this sport," says driver Billy Vukovich of the Sugarripe Prune Racing Team, "you have to be an A.J. Foyt. The man's proved beyond a doubt he's the greatest. People ask sometimes who is the best. All they have to do is check the record."

"A. J. has figured out things none of the rest of us has," said Johnny Rutherford, the man who will start right next to Foyt in the front row Sunday. "I don't know what it is, but he's way ahead of everyone else under the new rules.'"

The new rules are the U. S. Auto Club's fuel limitations which require more than a 20 per cent improvement in fuel mileage over the last year. During Sunday's qualifying races, each car was allowed only 57 gallons and several cars ran out before the race was over.

Foyt, using a special device to control the boost (the amount of fuel fed through the engine), set his own pace and ran out of fuel on his victory lap.

For Sunday's 500-mile race, each car will be limited to 280 gallons of methanol, 60 gallons less than allowed in 1973, and again, many of the drivers aren't sure they can go the distance.

"The qualifying races were guessing games," says Foyt. "We learned a lot, but I still don't think anyone has all the answers. I plan to run about the same way I did Sunday and just hope I make it."

Rain caused postponement Friday of the carburation tests for Sunday's race, but there will be a few hours set aside this morning for the drivers to experiment a little more with the fuel situation.

The tests will be held this morning, starting at 9 a.m. on the OMS track.

Of course the Roy Clark Show at Ontario is still scheduled to get underway in front of the main grandstand today at 2 p.m.

With the carburation tests running two days late because of the rain, it makes A. J. look even better as the heavy favorite.

The time trials last Saturday were delayed, and Foyt went out and blistered the track when they finally got underway.

Then Sunday the qualifying races were delayed two hours by the precipitation, but still Foyt won handily.

A delay this week sure won't harm the Houston, Tex., resident.

"We really haven't won anything yet," said the 39-year-old racing veteran. "I don't know about my chances. I've been in this game too long to count my chickens before they're hatched. A lot of the times things work so well before a race and then the same things go bad on race day."

With $9,125 already in the bank for winning his qualifying race, which was the 46th of his illustrious championship car career, Foyt is seeking to become the first man to win all three 500s—at Indianapolis, Pocono and Ontario. He won at Indy in 1961, 1964 and 1967 and captured Pocono last year.

It rained most of this week, but the national weather service said the shower activity should have diminished and skies should clear by today.

Clear skies were also forecast for the day of the race. USAC officials said no decision had been made yet on rescheduling the California 500 if rain canceled Sunday's scheduled race.

Foyt has been perfect in March at OMS, winning all three of the races he's competed in during that month. He won two stock car races and then the qualifying race last Sunday.

He, of all people, wants clear skies for Sunday.

"A lot of people have questioned A. J.'s abilities the last several years when he was having trouble winning," stated Vukovich. "Well, racing goes in cycles. I think he's as capable today as he ever was."

It sure looks that way.

"HAZARDOUS" WADING — Tom Weiskopf picks up his shoes after blasting out of a water hazard in second round of the Doral Open in Miami. Tom shot 69.

Jerry leads Doral Open

Heard's still hot

MIAMI (UPI) — Young Jerry Heard, riding an incredible hot streak, fired a 68 Friday and put down a challenge by Tom Weiskopf to take a one-stroke second round lead in the $150,000 Doral Eastern Open Golf tournament.

It was Heard's seventh straight sub-70 round and the fifth round in a row he had finished leading a golf tournament. The 26-year-old Californian led after all four rounds in his win at the Citrus Open in Orlando, Fla. last week.

Weiskopf, who won seven tournaments in a banner 1973 but has fared poorly in three previous outings this year, scored six straight threes from the third through the ninth holes and four straight birdies on the sixth through the tenth.

Heard had a 133 total for the two days and Weiskopf, who shot a 65 Friday, had a 134. Locked in a tie at eight-under-par 136 were defending champion Lee Trevino and Bruce Devlin.

Heard said he "didn't really feel like playing when I started out. I just really wasn't up."

But he said he started to get it going after he blasted 35 feet out of a sand trap into the cup for a birdie on his fifth hole. "I started sweating and drinking water and feeling a lot better."

Heard's short game brought him five birdies against only one bogey. His longest birdie putt was only 10 feet.

Heard's playing partner for the second straight day was Weiskopf. He said when Weiskopf strung the four straight birds, it didn't bother him. "I can't do anything about his game, I've got my own to worry about."

Trevino said he still wasn't "putting as well as I want to be putting. I've played well all year except for the putting."

Trevino is looking for his first win since he won the Doral a year ago.

Devlin said he went to sleep three times during his round. "Chilly-dipping" a chip shot and a sand wedge for about 10 yards each and three-putting one green for bogeys. "On the ones I went to sleep on, I think it's just a case of lack of competition," he said, noting this only his fifth tournament since last Labor Day.

Poly baseballers lose to SLO Mustangs, 6-1

SAN LUIS OBISPO — The Mustangs from Cal Poly, SLO dealt the Broncos from Cal Poly, Pomona a 6-1 loss Friday afternoon at SLO.

Broco starter Dee King gave up all six runs when he walked six, hit a batter and was tapped for seven hits in 7 1-3 innings. The Pomonans outhit the Mustangs, 12-8, and made only one error to the home team's three.

The loss was the second in conference play without a win for John Scolinas' team. Overall the Broncos are 8-9. Scolinas has picked Vic Bernal and Mike Heinen to face the Mustangs in this afternoon's doubleheader.

The only Pomona run came in the sixth inning with SLO leading 4-0. With one out, Paul Kargl slinged and was sacrificed to second by Steve Herter.

Designated hitter Clay Harris doubled down the left field line scoring Kargl. Dave Chapman reached base safely on an error by the Mustang third baseman with Harris advancing to third.

Scolinas sent Bob Harrington in to pinch hit. But both runners were left stranded when Harrington grounded out short to first.

SLO took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on two hits and the Broncos' only error. Dave Fowler singled and Bud Papodakia doubled to put men on second and third with nobody out. King fanned Larry Silvera. Gary Knuckles grounded to shortstop Nick Lusic who threw widly past first and both Fowler and Papodakia scored.

Knuckles slammed a solo home run in the fourth. The Mustangs added another run in the fifth on a walk, a single, and a double by Joe Zagarino.

'Pack, Terps win

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Top-ranked North Carolina State downed Virginia, 87-66, and 5th-ranked Maryland defeated 4th-ranked North Carolina, 105-85, Friday night in the semifinal round of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament.

All-American David Thompson scored 37 points for North Carolina State and John Lucas keyed the Maryland win with 24 points to lead the two powers into tonight's finals with a berth to the NCAA tournament going to the champion.

Lucas was one of five players in double figures for the Terrapins, who jumped to a 6-0 lead and stayed in front all the way.

Owen Brown had 22 points for Maryland while Tom McMillen and Mo Howard had 20 each and Len Elmore added 17. Freshman Walter Davis' 18 points set the pace for North Carolina.

The fired-up Terrapins connected on 62 per cent of their first half shots while North Carolina could do not better than 37 per cent, trailing 50-34 at the intermission.

North Carolina had a couple of second half rallies, cutting the lead each time to nine points but Maryland, deadly at the free throw line, rebounded each time and the 20-point final margin was Maryland's largest.

Maryland sank 29 of 34 free throw attempts, many coming in the final minutes as North Carolina pressed furiously.

The Tar Heels improved their cold shooting in the second half to 44 per cent but Maryland hit 65 per cent from the floor after intermission.

Thompson scored 21 of his 37 points in the second half as North Carolina State roared away from an intermission lead of only 29-27.

The 6-4 junior scored the Wolfpack's first 12 points of the game and State seemed headed for an easy win over the shorter and slower Cavaliers.

But Virginia, down 21-8 midway through the opening period, got a hot hand in freshman guard Billy Langloh, who came off the bench and scored eight of 14 points within a four-minute period to draw Virginia even at 22-22.

The lead changed hands four times during the next three minutes before North Carolina State regained the edge for keeps at 28-26 with 3:47 left in the half.

Langloh led Virginia with 21 points. Wally Walker added 14 and Gus Gerard had 12.

Thompson was practically the whole show for the Wolfpack, but 7-4 Tommy Burleson contribued 15 points and Tim Stoddard 10.

In the second half, North Carolina State sprinted away from the Cavaliers on a seven-point burst by Thompson within two minutes, pulling ahead 48-35 with 12:32 left.

Virginia never got close thereafter as Thompson triggered a 10-point burst to widen the margin to 80-57 with 2:46 left.

In NAIA tourney

APC to start early

AZUSA — Azusa Pacific College's NAIA District Three basketball champions will have to get up early Tuesday morning to play in the first round of the NAIA national tournament in Kansas City.

Coach Cliff Hamlow's Cougars, 28-4 for the season, drew Indiana Unversity of Pennsylvania (19-7), champions of District 18 and the Pennsylvania Conference, in Tuesday's 7:30 a.m. (PDT) contest at K.C.'s Municipal Auditorium to open the second day of first round contests.

If Azusa beats Indiana, the Cougars will meet the winner of the Grand Canyon (Ariz.)-Virginia State game in the second round on Wednesday.

KGRB (900) and KBOB-FM (98.3) of West Covina will be broadcasting the Azusa games but it isn't certain yet if they will be carried live or not.

Azusa will fly to Kansas City Sunday morning in time for the opening banquet.

The Cougars, who own the most wins of any of the 32 participants, were seeded 11th in the tournament.

Twice-beaten Fairmont (W. Va.) State, the top-ranked small college basketball team, was made the top-seeded entry in the tournament.

The Falcons (27-2) will meet Cameron (Okla.) State (24-5 in Tuesday night's featured first-round game.

The second seed was accorded Kentucky State (24-4, which won the tournament in 1970-71-72, but lost in the first round to Xavier (La.) last year.

Kentucky State, the only team in the field to have won a previous title, will meet Erskine (S.C.) (22-5) in a first-round game Monday night.

The 32-team field will open play Monday and continue to the finals Saturday night. Eight games will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with winners advancing to Thursday's quarter-final round.

Other seed teams include: 3 — Gardner-Webb (N.C.); 4—Alcorn (Miss.) A&M; 5—Hanover (Ind.); 6—Grand Canyon (Ariz.); 7—Midwestern (Tex.); 8—Augustana (Ill.); 9—Wisconsin-Eau Claire; 10—St. Thomas (Minn.); 11—Azusa Pacific (Calif.); 12—Northwestern Louisiana; 13—Missouri; Western; 14—West Georgia; 15—Hastings (Neb.); and 16—St. Mary's (Tex.).

Grand Canyon, the sixth-seeded team, has the gaudiest record, 27-1, in the field. The NAIA lost Maryland-Eastern Shore, a team that probably would have been top-seeded, last week when the Hawks accepted a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

Guilford (N.C.) 99-96 victory over Maryland-Eastern Shore in last year's championsip game.

Creed takes lead in ladies' tourney

HOUSTON (UPI) — Veteran Clifford Ann Creed, the past seven years a non-winner on the LPGA tour, played conservatively but like a winner Friday in the first round of the $100,000 S & H Green Stamps Classic.

"I didn't change my game much in that wind," she said, "but it kept getting tougher by the minute.

"I'll take a 72. In fact I'll take two more 72s if the wind keeps up like it is."

Wind, intermittant rain and a tight, water-lined Westwood Country Club course combined to keep first round scores high, and Miss Creed's one-under-par total was the only sub par round of the day.

She said she missed "easy" birdie putts of six, 12 and 20 feet or she would have stepped out farther in front of the field which started with 96 golfers.

They are all shooting for a top prize of $20,000, almost as much money as Miss Creed won all of last year.

"My last win was at Corpus Christi in 1967," she said. "It's been a while."

If Miss Creed was happy with her round, defending champion Kathy Whitworth, one stroke back along with Maria Astrologes, Roberta Albas, Debbie Austin, Margee Masters and Sandra Post, was not.

"I didn't hit the ball good like I did last week (when she won at St. Petersburg)," she said.

"This was the second time I've had a five-hour round and I'm sick of it. You're sitting there and you can't concentrate. There's something wrong somewhere."

She won the 54-hole, three-day event with a two-under 214 last year. Miss Creed was tied for 10th 10 strokes back then.

She birdied two of the first five holes to set the pace Friday.

It's been seven years since Miss Creed, an 11-year tour veteran, won an LPGA event.

She sank birdie putts of 10 and 25 feet on No. 10 and No. 14 as she started her round under sunny skies. By the time she made the turn, skies poured rain and she bogied No. 17 and then No. 1. Her other birdie came on the par-five 10th.

Miss Whitworth, the lanky Texan from Richardson, birdied the two par five holes during her first nine but lost both strokes to par in the wind and rain.

Six more golfers were tied at one-over-par 74, Jane Blalock, Pam Higgins, Sandra Palmer, Sandra Spuzich, Bonnie Bryant and JoAnn Prentice.

Miss Bryant, the only left-hander on the tour, took the early lead by going two-under on the back side, her first nine. She lost her lead later with a front nine 39.

Lakers roll over Pistons

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Guards Gail Goodrich and Jim Price each scored 31 points Friday night as the Los Angeles Lakers trounced the Detroit Pistons 129-113 to remain a half-game behind Golden State in the Pacific Division race.

Sports news in brief

TOM NELSON, a co-captain of the University of Maryland-Eastern Shores basketball team which competes next week in the National Invitational Tournament, was charged Friday with ripping down copper drain pipes at the school and selling them for scrap. Nelson, 23, a senior guard who averaged 14 points a game, and Alfred James, a 20-year-old halfback on the football team, have been formally charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods, Somerset County Assistant State's Attorney Logan Widdowson said.

BRUCE SHAW of North Carolina State University Friday became the second quarterback to sign a contract with the Detroit Wheels of the new World Football League. The 6-foot-2 quarterback led North Carolina State last year to an Atlantic Coast Conference championship, a victory over Kansas in the Liberty Bowl and the No. 11 ranking scoring offense in the nation.

TOM QUINN, head basketball coach at East Carolina University of the Southern Conference, Friday was fired from the post he has held for the past eight years. Word of the dismissal came from ECU Athletic Director Clarence Stassavich who said no successor had been named. Quinn, who spent four years at High Point College before coming to ECU, led the Pirates to a 13-12 mark last year and a fourth place finish in the conference with an 8-6 mark. His career record is 102-104.

AFTER A 20-minute meeting Friday, Tony Oliva still remained a holdout in his contract talks with the Minnesota Twins' president Calvin Griffith. Griffith reportedly increased his offer $4,000 to $88,000, but Oliva still feels he should receive the $91,000 he made last year. As the team's designated hitter, he hit .291 with 16 homers and a club-leading 92 RBI.

Spindler hurt but Idaho St. wins anyway

POCATELLO, Idaho. (UPI) — Idaho State coach Jim Killingsworth thought his hoped for greatest year was down the drain when 6-foot-10 senior center Dan Spindler suffered a severely sprained ankle midway through the year.

Spindler transferred to Idaho State two years ago after being selected Pomona Valley JC Player of the Year at Mt. San Antonio College. He played his high school ball at Rowland High.

But that was before he threw 17-year-old freshman Steve Hayes into the Big Sky Conference battle.

The Bengals were coasting along with a 5-0 Big Sky record when Spindler twisted the ankle in January, and ISU lost three of its next seven games to fall into a tie with Montana for the league title.

"Spindler just couldn't keep up the pace of training and two games each weekend," Killingsworth said. "We had to go with (6-11) Hayes."

At the start of the year Killingsworth had some doubts about even keeping Hayes on the varsity, "but now you can bet he'll see plenty of playing time in the NCAA playoffs."

Idaho State hosts 14th-ranked New Mexico in the second game of the NCAA Western Regional quarterfinal round here tonight. Independent Dayton faces Los Angeles State in the opening game.

Hayes, from Aberdeen, Idaho, will be the youngest player in the tournament, and the babyfaced giant has almost singlehandedly held ISU together as they finished co-champs with Montana in the Big Sky, and then went to Missoula, Mont., to defeat the Grizzlies 60-57.

"He's one of the best shooting big men I've ever seen," said Killingsworth. "I think we'll start Spindler against New Mexico, but Hayes is going to see plenty of action.

"We won't try to run with New Mexico. I don't think we can and we won't try. We're plodders. If we get out of our style of play, we're in trouble."

New Mexico, the nation's 17th best scoring team at 86.2 points per game, hopes to break Idaho State's rhythm.

"I feel my team is pretty well balanced, even though Bernard Hardin has been carrying us on scoring in most games," says New Mexico coach Norm Ellenberger.

"We've got an equal chance of winning this game," says LA State's Bob Miller of the Diablos contest with Dayton.

"After we cut our squad from 11 to eight players in January, we've become a closer knit team. We came on strong at the end of the season to finish runnerup to Long Beach State and take the NCAA berth."

Long Beach took the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title for the fifth straight year, but the 49ers have been banned from post-season tournaments for three years for recruiting violations, opening the way for the PCAA second place team to get the playoff spot.

"We had to win our last six games to get here, and that final win over Notre Dame (97-82) really made our season," Dayton Coach Don Donoher said. I think now the pressure is off us. We know we can win the big ones."

Bruins open track slate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA's defending NCAA track and field champions, rained out last weekend at Arizona State, open their 1974 schedule Saturday at Drake Stadium on the Bruin's campus.

Coach Jim Bush's Bruins will face San Diego State, which is led by Steve Williams, the world's No. 1 sprinter, and Arizona's Wildcats. The competition will be scored on a triangular and a dual meet basis.

Williams, who equaled the world 100-yard dash record of 9.1 seconds last season, will go in the 100 and also anchor San Diego's 440 and mile relay teams. There is a chance he may run in the 220.

In the 100, Williams will face UCLA's Gordon Peppars (9.4) and Arizona's Wardell Gilbreath (9.4).

Two big handicaps on tap at Santa Anita this weekend

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Miss Musket, winner of all four of her starts, and Modus Vivendi, an impressive victor her first time out, top of field of 10 3-year-old fillies in today's $56,800 Santa Susana Stakes at Santa Anita.

Willie Shoemaker, aboard Miss Musket, and Don Pierce, who returns on Modus Vivendi, each will be after his fifth Santa Susana victory in today's feature event.

Miss Musket, a chestnut daughter of Gunflint, won each of her four starts by an average of more than seven lengths and the last two victories were at the Santa Susana distance of a mile and one-sixteenth.

In her most recent victory, she shattered the 1 1-16 mile Santa Yisabel Stakes record by one second, finishing in 1:41 4-5 which is also the best time for the Santa Susana.

Modus Vivendi took a 10-length victory in the first start of her career, the La Centinela Stakes in January. She also won the seven furlong Santa Ynez Stakes by 4-½ lengths.

Opposing the two favorites, all carrying 115 pounds, will be Out To Lunch, Chalk Face, Kame Yen, Special Team, Saracen Summer, Fleet Gazelle, Quaze Quilt and Divine Grace. Divine Grace and Out Too Lunch are stakes winners.

Ancient Title and Quak Top an impressive field of 12 entered in Sunday's 37th running of the mile and one-quarter $170,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Also listed as entries in the West's premiere horse race are Dancing Papa, runner-up to Ancient Title in the Strub Stakes, Tri Jet, Forage, Crusading, Prince Dantan, Linda's Chief, Big Spruce, Kentuckian, Astray and El Extrano.

Yarborough, Thomas gain Pomona honors

POMONA — Pomona High School held their annual Sports Awards Banquet for Pomona High basketball players Wednesday night in the PHS cafeteria. Mike Yarborough and Derek Thomas were awarded The Tom Eckl Award. This award is awarded to the player who contributes the most.

Coach Ed Taylor expects a lot of winning from all four levels next year with good players coming up from sophomore (8-6) and Junior varsity teams. Pomona will also have players from Palomares and Emerson, which finished first and second respectively in the Mt. Baldy League.

Aaron gets bodyguard

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Atlanta slugger Hank Aaron, who is one home run away from tying Babe Ruth's career record of 714, has been assigned a bodyguard this spring by the Braves.

He is Calvin Wardlaw, a detective sergeant from Atlanta. He is, in effect, on loan from the city's police department.

In making the announcement, the Braves said Aaron has received no threats of any kind and that the move is precautionary.

Aaron said, "I don't consider him a bodyguard. He's a friend, that's all. He might be able to help in certain situations, such as big crowds outside the clubhouse after games."

Film is sign of cultural relaxation within Poland

WARSAW (UPI) — Poland's "mad major" of World War II has emerged from political obscurity as hero of the most unusual and popular Polish film in years.

His wartime exploits and the new movie about them are the talk of the town in Warsaw because they concern a longtime taboo subject—Polish nationalism.

Many people think it's a sign of cultural relaxation in Poland that a film with so delicate a theme even could reach the planning stages, let alone be ballyhooed officially as the artistic event of the season.

The major himself was a real life cavalry officer who reacted in classical Polish fashion when the German army successfully invaded his country in September, 1939; he simply refused to accept the facts.

Rather than give up or run away or join the partisans, he took the code name "Hubal" and formed a unit of a hundred or so other regular soldiers from the decimated Polish forces.

Then came the mad part. He was hopelessly outnumbered, and his men carried mostly sabers and light hand weapons, but Hubal continued to attack the well-equipped Germans until he was killed in an ambush in April, 1940.

That's the sort of romantic stuff that runs all through Polish history and attendance figures at the semi-documentary called "Hubal" —a million per month—show Poles today love it as much as ever.

But the real Hubal hasn't always been a fully-fledged hero here, which is why the new movie about him is interesting.

His proper name was Henryk Dobrzanski and he was a Roman Catholic, a member of the land-owning class and a professional soldier in the ultra conservative prewar Polish Army. He also drank too much and had the reputation of being a woman chaser.

In other words, hardly the type to be glorified in a Communist country.

So authorities chose to treat him as a non-person and a book on him published 10 years ago was removed from shops soon after coming out.

There was more to it than that. Hubal also had to be a non-person because he was a super patriot and his fight—against the odds, using flesh against steel, against one of Poland's two traditional enemies, Germany and Russia—is something most Poles secretly admire.

Previous Communist leaders considered that sort of nationalistic outlook unhealthy and perhaps damaging to this country's role in the internationally-minded Communist movement.

But now Poland's more pragmatic leadership has recognized the deep psychological need among the people for official sanction of a modern day patriot such as Hubal. Many observers feel the film is part of a campaign to encourage Poles to have more pride in themselves, in their work and country.

Regardless of the reason, "Hubal" has hit dead-on with the public. There's hardly a dry eye around during some scenes, especially one in a village church when Hubal and his men lead the congregation in a traditional Polish hymn asking God to free their country.

To an outsider, the film—which covers the period in which Dobrzanski forms his unit until he is killed—has good action, but is long on melodrama and short on plot and technical production.

16 deaths cited

Mandatory safety rules on TV due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing 16 deaths from fire and electrical shock, the Consumer Product Safety Commission said Monday it will impose mandatory safety rules on the manufacture of all television sets.

The rules are still months away from being drawn up and will be preceded by a public hearing April 23-24 at which the whole safety question, including the training and capability of TV repairmen, will be investigated, the commission said.

It said the rules would cover such things as chassis design, materials used in making components —including plastics —and what improvements could be made to keep sets from overheating.

The agency said a study by its area offices last September turned up 916 fires where television sets were believed to have been the cause, with one death and several injuries.

But it said a separate compilation, covering all of 1973 and involving 35 incidents reported by consumers or news media, showed 14 deaths from television-related fires and two from television electrocutions. Of those cases, it said, there were 20 actual television set fires, five where the set only smoked and one where there were both an explosion and fire.

Since last June 18, the agency added, about 140,000 color sets, mostly portable models, have been found with fire or shock hazards. All were repaired or replaced by the manufacturer.

Brands involved are Panasonic, Philco-Ford, Packard Bell, Montgomery Ward, Zenith, Admiral and RCA.

At the moment the only government safety rules covering television sets involve radiation levels.

Constance Newman, a member of the commission, told a briefing the agency felt it now had "sufficient information" on injuries and deaths to warrant moving ahead with safety rules.

The commission's own injury surveillance system, covering all emergency room cases in a selected sample representing 2 per cent of the nation's hospitals, turned up 681 television-related accidents during the 12 months ending last July 1. Many of those, however, involved cuts, bruises and even amputations not necessarily related to shock and fire problems.

The agency said it is seeking information from consumer groups on what they think should be done to make television sets safer; will ask the industry about its present standards and quality control; and will study the quality of training given service technicians.

Rodeos grew from contests

Rodeos grew out of impromptu contests of skills among cowboys in the 19th century.

MUSIC FOR THE AGES — They revived an old tune at the University of California—a 3,500-year-old tune in fact. Experts who have been meticulously putting together the music for the ancient religious song believe it is the oldest piece of music in the world. Richard L. Crocker, professor of medieval music at UC, plays the ancient lyre.

Soviet scientist says inmates mistreated

MOSCOW (UPI) — There are at present 1.7 million inmates in Soviet prisons and labor camps exposed to malnutrition and repression, according to dissident nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov.

Sakharov, developer of the Soviet hydrogen bomb, appealed to world organizations, especially the International Red Cross, to protest against human rights violations in the Soviet Union. He said they should abandon a policy of nonintervention in Soviet domestic affairs.

The 52-year-old scientist and leader of an unofficial Human Rights Committee made the comments in a 30-page forward to a collection of his writings and statements to be published soon in the United States. The essay was made available to Western newsmen Sunday.

Sakharov said there were 1.7 million persons in Soviet prisons and camps exposed to "malnutrition, pitiless formalism and repressions."

"The preservation of the camp system and forced labor is one of the reasons why extensive regions of the country are off-limits to foreigners," he said.

"It would appear that the realization of any successful international cooperation in developing our very rich resources is impossible without the obolition of this system."

Western Soviet specialists have estimated there are about one million persons in 900 prisons and labor camps here, about 10,000 of them political prisoners.

Charge made in Harold Lloyd estate

Tourist restrictions hurt season

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — A former city planning chief charged that key city officials hoped to pick up the Harold Lloyd Museum on the rebound by tightening restrictions on tourist attendance.

Max Strauss, who retired his 18-year post last summer, charged Thursday that the palatial hilltop estate of the late silent screen comic loses up to $10,000 a month because of the slim tourist flow.

"They (Beverly Hills planning commissioners and councilmen) purposedly imposed conditions in 1972 to make it fail," he said. "Strauss is currently a Los Angeles public works commissioner.

Lloyd's Benedict Canyon estate, which opened as a museum a year ago last April, closed down indefinitely last week.

Strauss said he felt the city's restrictions on the tourist flow were aimed at keeping the museum a losing proposition so that it would fall to the city of Beverly Hills under a key provision in Lloyd's will.

Three of the four councilmen who approved the visitor restrictions at the wooded estate denied the provision in Lloyd's will had anything to do with their decision.

"The thought of acquiring the (museum) land was never in the minds of the councilmen," said Councilman J.M. Stuchen. "It's perfect nonsense."

His colleague, councilman Charles Aronberg, said the museum may have suffered more from tourist apathy than from any restrictions put on them by the city.

"It wasn't exactly one of the seven wonders of the world," he said.

The estate's Mediterraneanstyle, 44-room house, with its $1.5 million collection of films, vintage cars, movie artifacts and paintings, is surrounded by fountains, watery cascades and reflecting pools and formal gardens.

Some of the city's tourist restrictions included:

—The public could visit the museum only through a private or commercial bus tour, such as Grayline Tours, which charged about $4.

—Not more than 26 persons could tour the main museum house at any one time.

—Not more than 12 buses a day were allowed at the Harold Lloyd Museum—no more than two at a time—and none before 10 a.m. or after 4 p.m.

An estate spokesman said they needed about 250 daily visitors to break even, but were only getting 150-200.

Soviet forger finally nabbed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Mikhail Zarodesh made his living selling tickets on the Moldavian lottery—but with a difference.

Lottery tickets normally sell 37 cents. But Zarodesh sold his for as high as $12,900 apiece and still managed to find takers.

He sold them after the lottery drawing was held, and all of them bore winning numbers on hard-to-get automobiles.

But when the "winners" went to collect, they discovered that their tickets were forged and the real winners already had driven away in the new cars.

By the time they notified police, Zarodesh and his accomplices had moved to another city in the Soviet Moldavian republic, searching for fresh victims.

Vladimir Yudin, deputy minister of internal affairs in Moldavia, told about Zarodesh and his gang in this weeks issue of the magazine Ogonyok.

He said Zarodesh, an Odessa artist who was living from hand to mouth, got caught in a rainstorm in 1971 with a lottery ticket in his pocket. The rain washed out most of the lettering on the ticket.

Zarodesh decided to use his artistic skills and restore it. He did such a fine job that he decided to start forging tickets.

He found accomplices, and for nearly two years, until police caught up with them, they ranged far and wide over Moldavia, the Ukraine, southern Russia and other Soviet republics selling tickets.

Yudin said they sold 15 "winning" tickets, mostly to people who had acquired large sums of money illegally and did not want to arouse suspicion by attempting to buy cars.

Zarodesh was caught in December 1972 and sentenced to 12 years in a strict regime labor camp. Strict regime means hard labor and shorter food rations than prisoners normally get.

Two of his accomplices drew 10-year sentences, and the only woman member of the ring was sentenced to five years.

Future TV lectures will arrive by phone

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's a long way to year 2001—when science makes the world a wonder place for all mankind. But there's already something on the education scene that's a taste of the future.

Imagine, if you will, picking up a telephone after you have turned your television set to a special channel. Over the telephone call coming in you will hear a lecturer from a university.

On the television set, while he is talking, you will see reproduced on your screen the things he's drawing or writing on the school blackboard.

Some students in Illinois don't need to imagine such a system. It's happening right now.

The experimental system that transmits blackboard writing over ordinary telephone lines for display on a television screen at a distant location is being tested at the University of Illinois.

Called an electronic blackboard, the system was devised by Bell Laboratories, the research and development unit of the Bell System.

It will be a matter of much time, of course, before such a system can be on-call to everyone with a telephone and a television set. But it is not beyond reach.

The electronic blackboard is pressure-sensitive. When the teacher writes on it with chalk, sensors in the specially-rigged blackboard send signals to a box full of electronic gear. The signals are aimed, then, at telephone lines that deliver them to the TV screen.

The electronic blackboard is far less costly than closed circuit television, the only comparable system transmitting both audio and visual information instantaneously. The new system using plain telephone lines does not require a professionally-trained technician to operate.

The University of Illinois uses the electronic blackboard to transmit engineering classes conducted at its campus in Champaign-Urbana to off-campus locations in Freeport, Rock Island, Peoria and Rockford.

The "trial" is coordinated by Bell Labs and Illinois Bell Telephone Co., with the school's cooperation.

The signals from the electronic blackboard can be sent across town or across country.

Sending the audio portion of a lecture over telephone lines is old hat — via a portable conference telephone system in wide use. The conference telephone features hands-free operation, a built-in loudspeaker, and two-way conversations between groups of people. Lots of "famous speakers" lecture to college students this way— saving travel time and expense.

One use for the electronic blackboard system: transmitting both audio and graphic information to bedridden or invalid students.

ONCE UPON A TIME

High upon a hill there lived a princess. Every eve she would stroll the balcony by the luminous pool and heavenly garden. She would wait for her prnice by the day, wandering through the 3 bedroom, 2 bath fortress. Dining alone in the formal dining room, and sitting by the hour as the flames danced endless in the magnificent brick fireplace in the family room. No servants were needed in the letage electric kitchen and fans were taboo with the central air conditioning. One day her prince did come, riding his horse into the 2 car garage with automatic door, and carried her away from her hilltop home. Now the castle stands alone, waiting for a happy family to enlighten the royal courtyard, tread upon the marble entry, and frolic merrily thru the halls. $75,000.

1522 LAKE STREET, ONTARIO

OWNER TRANSFERRED

Must sell this immaculate 3 bedroom, 1¾ bath home. Fireplace, air conditioning unit, dining area, huge covered patio and fenced back yard. Only $24,000.

SUPERIOR DWELLING

Authentic spanish architecture thru-out this 10 room mansion. Red tile roof, arched windows, vaulted ceiling, stone fireplace, wrought iron staircase, french doors, private balcony. Shady veranda and ivy covered gate. Antiquity and memories of days past lurk thru the halls of this magnificent home.

New season for an old pasttime...

... Story on page 4

SUPREME BEAUTY — The Supremes, popular Motown group, will perform at the 59th annual National Orange Show in San Bernardino March 24. The exposition opens an 11-day run Thursday. Also performing at Swing Auditorium will be Red Skelton next Saturday and Bob Hope the following day. Stage shows are free except for a rock concert by Johnny Winter and the Brownsville Station March 22.

Trip Tips

Young travelers to Europe can be all in the family

By MARIE MATTSON

The ideal way to discover a country is to live there. A tourist sees only the sights, but as a resident you experience the lifestyle and get to know the people.

Several organizations offer youths opportunities to live abroad in summer with families as "sons" and "daughters." You call your hosts "Mother" and "Father" and you must respect their wishes. Except in isolated instances, they receive no payment for your stay.

Even though you've been dating for several years, your new parents' culture may require that now you always be chaperoned. You might have to adapt to a new set of meal hours and strange diet. How about a breakfast of curry in Indian — or soybean soup, seaweed, bean curd, eggs, rice and pickles in Japan? Your Finnish family will introduce you to sauna. You'll get used to using francs, lire or some other currency.

Regulations may prevent you driving a car, motor scooter or motorcycle while abroad. This is both to safeguard your welfare and prevent unfortunate reactions should you have an accident. While overseas you are subject to the laws of that particular country — drug use could put you in jail and no one could effect your release.

Generally you'll live in a small or medium-sized community. Whenever possible, you're placed with a family that has a member about your own age, and you're expected to assume responsibility for certain home chores. Family recreation may focus on camping and hiking trips, music festivals and the like.

To be accepted in a program you should be: 1) Mature enough to take care of yourself. 2) Truly interested in a foreign culture. 3) Sufficiently adaptable and flexible to fit in readily with a different lifestyle, including a willingness to accept directions from your new parents. 4) Gregarious, with the ability to make friends easily. 5) Warm-hearted. 6) Healthy.

A language background is helpful, but not always required. If you don't have some knowledge of the local language, at least one member of your host family speaks English.

You'll have to furnish school records, teacher's evaluation, personal references and medical records.

Following — in no particular order — are non-profit, educational organizations that sponsor summer programs abroad for young people along with addresses to write for additional information.

THE EXPERIMENT IN INTERNATIONAL LIVING, Brattleboro, Vt. 05301. Summer abroad programs last from six to eight weeks, combine home stays with travel.

Three recitals slated by P.C. music department

CLAREMONT — The Pomona College music department will present three recitals next week. Each starts at 8:15 p.m. Admission is free.

Cellist Katy Roberts and pianist Bonny Hough, both juniors, will give a joint music recital Monday in Bridges Hall of Music.

The artists will perform works by Bach, Copland, Beethoven, Hindemith and Britten.

During the first half of the program, two solo works will be performed. Miss Roberts will play the Bach Sixth Suite for Unaccompanied Cello, and Miss Hough will perform the Piano Sonata by Aaron Copland. After intermission, they will join to perform two sets of variations: Hindemith's Variations on "A frog he went a-courting," and Beethoven's Variations on "Bei Maennern, welch Liebe fuehlen," a song from Mozart's "The Magic Flute." The concert will conclude with Benjamin Britten's Sonata in C for Cello and Piano.

Music by Bach, Beethoven, Hindemith and Debussy will be played in a recital by music students March 13 in Thatcher Music Building.

Cellist Mary Ann Campbell and harpsichordist Lynne Rogers, will be heard in the Third Cello Suite by Bach.

Several pianists also will perform on the program. Suzy Blaustein will play the Six Bagatelles, Opus 126, by Beethoven; Harriet Chu will play Beethoven's Piano Sonata No. 10 in G Major; Alan Geier will play the First Piano Sonata by Hindemith, and Mary Ann Richards, will perform "Masques," by Claude Debussy.

Flautist Camille Churchfield will make her Pomona College faculty recital debut March 15 in Bridges Hall of Music.

Miss Churchfield will play Bach's Flute Sonata in E Minor; "Introduction and Variations" by Schubert; the Sonatine by Darius Milhaud, Carl Nielsen's Flute Concerto, and the Concerto a tre in F Major by Telemann. She will be assisted by Louanne Fuchs Long, piano and harpsichord, and David Turner, horn.

Miss Churchfield is principal flute with the Riverside Symphony, the San Bernardino Symphony, and the Redlands University - Community Symphony. Last summer, she participated in the Claremont Music Festival, where she was presented with the Betty Wood Memorial Prize as the outstanding performer of the Festival Institute.

Miss Churchfield holds positions on the faculties of Pomona College, the University of Redlands, and La Sierra College. She also maintains a private studio of flute students. In addition, she is a member of La Mer Wind Quintet, a group of young professionals based in Los Angeles.

New season for old love

Coach Dixie Walker gives instructions

LOS ANGELES — Batter up!

With the opening of spring training for major league baseball teams, the voice of the umpire is heard through the land — to the delight of millions of baseball fans (and the anguish of their wives.)

The longest transcontinental trek to spring camp is made by the Los Angeles Dodgers, who climbed aboard their 720-B fan-jet, "Kay O' II" two weeks ago and took off on a 3,000-mile flight to Vero Beach, halfway between Cape Canaveral and Palm Beach on the Atlantic Coast of Florida. (The California Angels train in nearby Palm Springs.)

(Because of the fuel shortage, the cross-country flight was the only one scheduled until the team returns to Los Angeles March 28. In other years, the Dodgers have jetted around Florida to games in the Grapefruit League — this year they'll travel by bus.)

This is the Dodger's 26th spring at Vero Beach — including some of their years as the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"We have tried Daytona Beach and Sanford and Pensacola," recalled board chairman Walter O'Malley. "They were pleasant enough, but Florida had segregation laws in some communities then — blacks couldn't play with whites — and we had Jackie Robinson and were determined to keep pioneering in that area."

At the close of World War II, the government had turned over to the small town (12,000) of Vero Beach a sprawling Naval air station, a million-dollar gift that the city had no use for and no means of maintaining.

A far-sighted Vero Beach businessman, Bud L. Holman, talked the town into renting the then-Brooklyn Dodgers 100 acres for $1 a year. Branch Rickey, then head of the organization — never known for wasting a penny — snapped up the offer. (The Dodgers subsequently bought the land and 240 additional acres for $5,000 an acre.)

In the spring of 1948, 600 young athletes from "The big club" and 26 farm teams descended on the air station grounds and took up residence in the rickety barracks.

"It marked the first time that major and minor league players had shared the same camp," said Al Campanis, an infielder with the Dodgers' minor league organization in 1948 and now vice president in charge of player personnel.

The mixture worked. In the quarter of a century since the experiment started, the Dodgers have won nine National League pennants and four world's championships. The minor league teams also garnered a healthy number of pennants, from Triple A on down.

Today the camp ("Dodgertown" to the natives) boasts a half-dozen baseball diamonds, including Holman Stadium, where exhibition games are played, a long row of batting cages equipped with pitching machines, covered pitching mounds for working in the rain, a running track and sliding pits. It is the best equipped baseball training complex in the nation.

From Dodgertown's fields and batting cages came stars like Pee-wee Reese, Jim Gilliam, Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres, Eddie Stanky, Gil Hodges, Maury Wills and Duke Snider, and three who have been named to baseball's Hall of Fame — Roy Campanella, Sandy Koufax and the late Jackie Robinson.

Conditions have improved since the early days when the players lived in the roach-infested, non-air-conditioned barracks and had two choices for extracurricular entertainment — horseshoes and badminton.

The leaky barracks have been replaced by a comfortable, air-conditioned motel (O'Malley prefers "residence hall"). He has built a small lake, tennis courts, a theater, an 18-hole golf course (one hole is a 660-yard par six), and a new administration building, opened for the first time this year. It includes a major league clubhouse, minor league clubhouse, medical department, dining room and kitchen, canteen, recording studio, photo dark room, Western Union office, interview room, working press headquarters, trainers' room, equipment storage and laundry.

The equipment is a major logistical factor in the Dodgertown operation. Clubhouse man Nobe Kawano packed 3½ tons of baseball equipment into 25 trunks to ship from Los Angeles to Vero Beach.

The Dodgers use five dozen baseballs a day during spring training (10 dozen during a regular season game), according to Dodger publicist Fred Claire. Each player starts spring training with a dozen bats, and 20 "iron" bats are used in the batting cages. Each player has three gloves and four uniforms, two white for home games, two grey for away games. A Dodger uniform, including a bat and glove, costs about $175.

In their years at Vero Beach, the Dodgers have built and bought, invested money, helped the tourist trade, brought publicity and popularity (and taxes) to the tiny community — the smallest town in the nation to host a major league ball club.

"It makes you feel good to have a big-league team," said Alma Loy, chairman of the Indian River County Commission. "We're glad to share our team with Los Angeles."

The "sharing" will start March 28, when the Dodgers fly back to Los Angeles to prepare for their opening game of the 1974 season, at home against the San Diego Padres April 5.

ON THE COVER

It's that time again! The Los Angeles Dodgers, now tuning up for the 1974 season at Vero Beach, Fla., hope scenes like this — a jam-packed Dodger Stadium — will be repeated often during the pennant race. The Dodgers topped the two million attendance mark last season. Opening day this year is April 5, at home with the San Diego Padres.

Historian presents 'man of humbug'

By NICHOLAS POLOS

HUMBUG: THE ART OF P.T. BARNUM by Neil Harris. Little, Brown, $10.

This is a fascinating study of the "Patron Saint of Hucksterism," P. T. Barnum, and his life style or "modus operandi."

Dr. Nichols C. Polos is assitant professor of history at La Verne College.

In 10 small chapters aided and abetted by 24 pages of notes Harris brilliantly describes the life of a circus fakir as "a man in tent to deceive."

There is no doubt that even though there is a sucker born every minute still even that unfortunate fellow could appreciate the master trickster who specialized in the art of the put-on.

One of P.T. Barnum's own posters modestly described this great showman, impressario, circus owner, speculator, lecturer, author and politician as the stupendous P.T. Barnum the "Hero about Whose Name Clusters So Much of Romantic Interest and Whose Brilliant Deeds are Themes of Poetry and Prose."

P.T. Barnum's ticket-seller once said of the great American salesman: "First he humbugs them, and then they pay to hear him tell how he did it. I believe if he should swindle a man out of $20, the man would give a quarter to hear him tell about it."

Harris, a professor of history at the University of Chicago, does not believe in hoaxes, and he has given us a study of solid historical research.

His study of this representative 19th-Century Connecticut Yankee reduces the theatrical glare of the vivid lights to a minimum; indeed, he presents Barnum as an intelligent businessman who understood the temper of his times, and whose "business involved the myths and values of a self-proclaimed democracy."

His kaleidoscopic picture of the "Sultan of the Sawdust" reveals the duality of the inegenious showman.

While it is true that Barnum's stock in trade was "feejee Mermaids," Napoleon's cane, "Woolly horses" from the wild west, the triumphs of General Tom Thumb, a huge circus tour, and the presentation of a "one hundred and sixty-one-year-old" slave who claimed she had been George Washington's nurse, yet he always wrapped his exhibits in the myths of his applauding clients, the paying public.

Harris shows that Barnum who started out in "the irreverent Jacksonian era," was aware of the dichotomy between confidence and fraud, and the matter of gullibility and cynicism.

Drawing heavily from primary sources such as letters, journals and newspapers, Harris paints in dark stroke the private ideals which Barnum valued highly.

Barnum lived in the age of reform. He was a temperance crusader, an opponent of slavery, women's rights, and civil liberties. And yet, in his public life his theatrical enterprises enthroned humbug as a form of social therapy essential in the world of entertainment for a society that was changing rapidly.

In his grand interpretive portrayal of Barnum, Harris probes deeply into Barnum's moral nature and in an illuminating and entertaining fashion reveals that the man of genius is always a bundle of inconsistencies.

The book is expensive, but it is an investment in hours of entertainment which can be shared.

BOOK REVIEWS

Columnist was casual but influential

By JOAN HANAUER

DREW PEARSON: Diaries 1949-1959, edited by Tyler Abell. Holt, Rinehart, Winston. $15.

Turn to any page in this book and you are impressed by the casualness with which Drew Pearson moved among the most powerful men of the 1950s and by the immense influence he wielded.

Take page 545. Pearson reports that the 1959 Khrushchev visit is backfiring, that a major U.S. Senator is mad at then Vice President Nixon for initiating it and may shift to political support of Nelson Rockefeller.

Two days later, the columnist testified before House Armed Services subcommittee and commented afterward about a Congressman "regarding whom I once reported that he had run around the corridor of the Savoy in London in his underpants, chasing gals. He asked no questions."

A few paragraphs later, he tells of meeting Jack Kennedy at the Capitol and being thanked for his support on a current issue.

Some scintillating stuff, coupled with marvelous details that dramatize the diverse displays of power in politics — the trade-offs for favors, the bribe, the out-and-out skullduggery.

Pearson's experiences as a Washington muckracker were unique and so was he.

As he once remarked, 'I'd rather be liked than not but I can understand why some people don't like me . . . It is my job as a newspaperman to spur the lazy, watch the weak, expose the corrupt."

Narrative of distant people reflects American paradox

By JOHN K. ROTH

THE OATH by Elie Wiesel. Random House, $7.95.

In 1848, Karl Marx saw Europe haunted by the specter of communism. Europe is haunted for me as well. Not by communism, though my visits to Moscow and East Berlin are unforgettable; not by Karl Marx, though I sensed his ghost radiating far and wide from Lenin's tomb. My European experience is shaped decisively by Jewish joy and pain, and especially by one Jew, Elie Wiesel.

(John K. Roth is preofessor of philosophy and religion at Claremont Men's College.)

Wiesel is a survivor, a witness of human terror and destruction. His testimony produces rage and guilt, laughter and tears, protest and prayer. The lines of Wiesel's books are paths through pathos as it cries out in the Jewish experience that culminates in Auschwitz and then moves on.

His latest novel, "The Oath," is no exception. Its words are visions, glimpses into a world of fire, madness, and death that few of us can fully imagine, let alone understand or explain. Yet Wiesel's witness challenges us to try. Refusal means to face the verdict: "Poor mankind is dying of stupidity."

"The Oath" is about a community that disappeared, except for one surviving witness. It is a tale about that person's battle with a vow of silence. It is the story of men and women trying to transform fear into strength, suffering into hope, death into life. Wiesel's characters succeed and fail, just as they seek, lose, and perhaps rediscover the many faces of God.

Azriel is the surviving witness of Kolvillag. That community in Eastern Europe was destroyed by a 20th century pogrom. The holocaust was prompted by the disappearance of a Christian boy. Prejudice produced rumor; rumor flamed into hate. Soon the Jews of Kolvillag realized that all of them were under threat, accused of a ritual murder.

One member of the community, Moshe, a strange mystical spirit, offers to surrender himself as the guilty party, though no crime has been committed. But far from satisfying the authorities and "Christians" of the town, hatred and irrationality intensify. The Jews begin to see that history will be repeated. They prepare for the worst, not arming themselves for violence but gathering strength to wait.

Moshe is permitted to speak to the Jews assembled in their ancient synagogue. He anticipates the destruction of Kolvillag. Moshe knows the record of Jewish endurance and testimony against violence. But this seems to have done little to restrain man and God from further vengeance, so Moshe persuades his people to try something different. By ceasing to refer to present events, perhaps future ordeals can be prevented.

The Jews of Kolvillag become Jews of silence. Under threat of a curse, they take Moshe's oath: "Those among us who will survive this present ordeal shall never reveal either in writing or by the word what we shall see, hear and endure before and during our torment!"

The Jewish blood flows in the streets. Jewish spirits strain upward in smoke and fire. Only young Azriel survives. He bears the chronicles of Kolvillag, one created through his own eyes, the other in a book entrusted to him for safekeeping by his father, the community's historian. Azriel bears the oath of Kolvillag as well. He becomes a wandering Jew, torn between speech and silence but true to his promise.

One day, some 50 years after Kolvillag, Azriel meets a young man who is in despair. He is about to kill himself in a desperate attempt to give his life significance by refusing to live it.

Azriel decides to intervene, to find a way to make the waste of suicide impossible for his new friend. He breaks the oath. Azriel saves the boy

Should married women keep their own names?

By DONALD B. THACKERY

MARRIED WOMEN VS. HUSBANDS' NAMES by Una Stannard. Germain Books, San Francisco. $2 Paperback.

Men cannot blame Women's Lib for the current phenomenon of women refusing to take the name of the man they marry.

The first keep-your-own-name league was started in 1921. It was the Lucy Stone League and who remembers the name of her husband?

But the movement has been growing recently despite the belief that many states have laws requiring a woman to change her name when she marries.

That is not true, says Ms. Stannard, author of this book. Only Hawaii of the 50 states has such a statute.

In addition to the history of the movement and up-to-date laws in the various states, the book sets forth the 11 chief arguments used by lawyers arguing the right of a wife to keep her own name.

It also discusses the right of a mother to give her child a surname different from its father's.

Cattle King

Meat by appointment

POMONA — At Cattle King Beef, 240 S. Oak St., Bob Estel doesn't like to do business with customers except by appointment "because we don't like to make people wait."

Cattle King takes orders for chunks of beef for 50 pounds or more and also rents food lockers at $15 a month.

It is one of two in southern California owned by partners Bob and his brother, Harry. The other is located in Corona.

Bob runs the Pomona place with 19-year-old Gary Isom, journeyman meat cutter who has been working with Bob since he was 13. Bob also gets occasional help from one of six children, Gregory.

Estel is a stickler for good service and customer courtesy.

"I cut to a customer's exact specifications, cut and package with the customer there watching what I'm doing," Estel explained.

Estel's been working in various aspects of the meat business since 1947 when he helped his dad run a retail market in Coachella.

From there he went to a locker plant, supermarkets, was meat manager for a Thriftymart for a number of years until he went into a partnership with three other fellows in Harmony House.

Last December, Estel sold his interest in Harmony House and bought Cattle King.

Just recently, Estel and his wife, Joyce, purchased an old two-story house in north Pomona and talks in enthusiastic terms about the prospects of his new business and the importance of customer satisfaction.

Cattle King is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Gary Isom, 19, started working with operator of Cattle King Beef in Pomona at age 13.

1892 hiring practices

Today racial discrimination is a nasty phrase, particularly as it applies to hiring practices. But there was a time when it was something almost universally condoned by the smart employer out to get the most for the wages he paid.

In the early 1890s, for instance, if it appeared that such an action would materially add to their profits, employers not only didn't hesitate a minute when it came to practicing racial discrimination but what was more, even if that racial discrimination involved favoring child labor over Oriental labor, they made the choice with a clear conscience. This was accomplished by patriotically pointing out that after all they were only doing their duty by native born American workers even though those American workers were often only 12 years old.

So it came as somewhat of a shock to many self righteous, flag waving, rationalizing employers throughout the valley when, in October of 1892, The Pomona Weekly Times quoted a forthright agriculturist in the San Joaquin Valley regarding the reasoning behind his hiring practices. That gentleman, with rare candor, put his beliefs and convictions right on the line and proudly announced that getting more work for less money was the guiding principle responsible for his business successes. The Pomona Weekly Times editor was properly impressed by that San Joaquin Valley farmer's candid remarks and used them as a basis for a feature story in which it was stated.

"D. W. Parkhurst, of Fowler, Fresno County, has proven that San Francisco boys do more and better work in the raisin fields than Chinamen. He gives the boys good board, a place to sleep, and pays according to age. A 12-year-old gets $12 a month."

Survivor benefits vital in pension plan

By CARLTON SMITH

One of the serious problems of family security is the failure of pension plans to cover survivors.

Vast numbers of wage earners count on pensions, eventually, to stand between them and the poverty level of Social Security payments, after retirement.

(That many will never collect the pensions they're counting on is another matter. "Vesting" requirements are widely made so difficult to meet that many workers fail to qualify for pensions, even after long years of service. A bill that would at least partially correct this injustice is now awaiting final action in Congress.)

A separate problem, which many employes fail to take into account when placing reliance on future pensions for family security, is that in most cases pensions end when the worker dies. A surviving wife (or husband) and children can be left in desperate financial straits.

The most recent survey of the country's pension plans revealed that fewer than one in eight provided for survivors' annuities, Evan L. Hodgens, a Bureau of Labor Statistics economist, reports in "Monthly Labor Review."

The percentage of pensioners who actually enjoy survivor benefits is somewhat better, because it is mostly in the larger unions and larger corporations that the benefit is included in pension plans. These plans cover relatively large numbers of worker — but still, only one in five, either active or retired, who had qualified for a pension, had any protection for surviving dependents in case of the worker's death.

Wage earners, then, shouldn't allow themselves to be lulled into a false sense of family financial security because of a pension that promises a generous supplement to Social Security payments. If the pension plan doesn't provide an annuity for survivors, financial planning should include consideration of some type of life insurance that can provide income for survivors.

That requires fairly careful planning, to get maximum income benefits at minimal cost. Costs can usually be held down by setting up a plan in which the amount of insurance (or of income) is allowed to decrease as the years pass. A number of other factors, however, determine the type and amount of insurance that will best do the job — and for most families the assistance of a knowledgeable and conscientious insurance man, to help with the planning, is essential.

Survivor benefits are so valuable, and so costly for the family to fund privately, that whether they are provided in a pension plan might well be a deciding factor in your decision to work for Company A, or Company B.

You're most likely to find the benefit provided in large companies, Hodgens reports, and in certain segments of industry.

The benefit is "seldom provided by plans covering less than 1,000 workers," but when plans covering 100,000 or more workers were surveyed, it was found that almost half the employees had survivor benefits.

The highest incidence of survivor benefits was found in manufacturing, communications and transportation companies, and public utilities. About 25 per cent of the workers had the benefit, the survey showed.

Only about 15 per cent were covered in finance, insurance and real estate.

In mining, construction, the wholesale and retail trades and in services, the benefit was termed "rare."

Not a very encouraging picture. But the eonomist had some better news to report: Because survivor benefits "are likely to become a major bargaining issue in the 1970s, and because employers are also showing an interest in them, survivors' pensions will likely continue to spread rapidly."

Stray cat repays his adopted family

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: A few months after he found a home with us, our alley cat, Tiger, saved our lives by waking us up when the house was on fire. The fire was in an area where Tiger couldn't have seen it. My question is, did he hear it or smell it first? — M.S.

Dear M.S.: It would depend a lot on the type of fire. Some are noisier than others and a cat could hear a fire more quickly than a human. It would depend, too, upon the air currents within the house, how quickly smoke was distributed. Odds are, though, because Tiger has an extremely keen sense of smell, the odor aroused him first.

DEAR DR. MILLER: They're not pets exactly, but I have two small colonies of cockroaches. One of the American and one of the Oriental. The problem I am having is with the Oriental cockroaches. They smell quite strong even though they are kept as clean as the others. How can I prevent this? — R.B.

P.S. How long do cockroaches live, by the way?

Dear R.B.: Blatta Orientalis, the Oriental cockroach, carries a stronger odor. This is no reflection on its comparative sanitary habits. (Similarly, mice have more odor than rats.)

The American cockroach, from long-lived parentage and with consistent good care and plenty of luck, may live up to two years if it's female.

The male — even the lucky ones — make it only half that long. And the Oriental lives half as long as the American male (cockroach).

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it true that tying a dog up will make it mean? I sure hope not because I don't know how else I can keep my dog in our yard when I am gone. — J.Y.

Dear J.Y.: Being kept on any leash, short or long, is eventually frustrating to a dog though a longer one, (preferably connected to a sliding ring with an overhead wire) is less so than short, fixed leash. Obviously, the more exercise possible under these restricted conditions, the better. A dog who is simply chained and abandoned for long periods of time may, indeed, become "mean" or at least neurotic and unpredictable in behavior. This doesn't mean a dog shouldn't psychologically and physically be able to handle being leashed for several hours at a time provided it can be comfortable. It's only reasonable to pay extra attention to the dog after such periods of confinement. This will make it easier for him to cope with those lonesome periods.

Chicano culture week

By KEN SWART
Pomona Reporter

Participation and support from MECHA de Pomona and the Pomona community in unison helped to make "Semana de la Raza" both a full and enjoyable week.

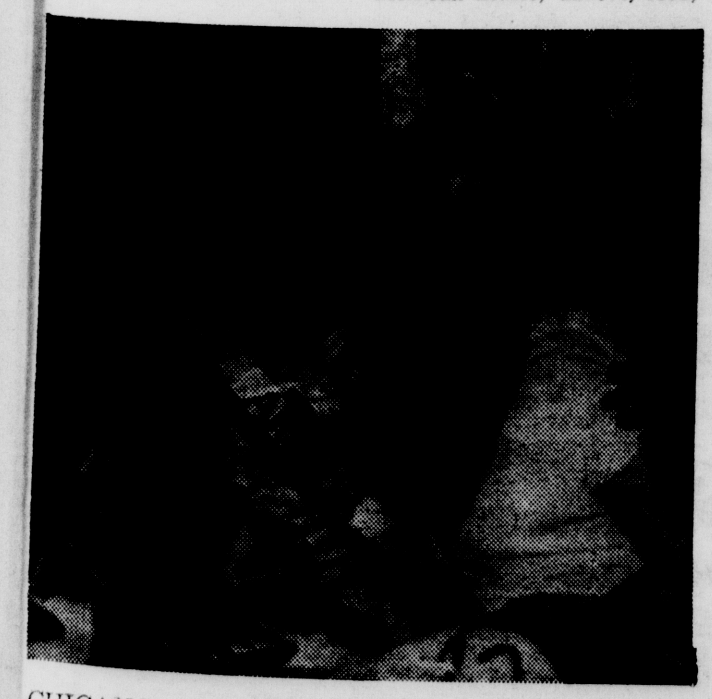
"Semenda de la Raza," Pomona High's Chicano Culture Week, was held from Feb. 13-15.

During Feb. 13, Pomona High enjoyed performances by the Ballet Folklorico de MECHA, and the exhibits of Mexican handicrafts and curios.

The most successful event of the week, the "Cena" (banquet), included participation from many school and community members. Native Mexican music, dances, food, and games (including a pinata) were incorporated into the fun-filled night.

During the "Cena" the Chicano Culture court was announced and crowned. The voted king was Arthur Perez, and Mandy Grinstead was crowned queen. The court also consisted of princes Santos Rivera and Steve Parrilla. Princesses were Gloria Castanon and Gloria Gonzales.

On Friday, the band "Essence'' performed during lunch, to the delight of the student body. Also, City Councilman Ben Ochoa and Education Center Director of LULAC — Chalo Ramirez gave brief speeches



CHICANO ROYALTY — Arthur Perez and Mandy Grinstead were king and queen of the Chicano Culture court during the "Cena" at Pomona High.

Memory of snub haunts Leachman

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Cloris Leachman was leaving the next morning for a long weekend. She was going skiing, with her husband and five children, at the popular new Colorado ski resort, Telluride, so maybe that's why she was feeling playful.

"Let's play a game," she said. "Tell me—what moment in your life are you most ashamed of?"

Since I have led a peerless life I was hard put to find such a moment but finally dredged one up. Then I asked her for her worst moment. She told me this story.

It happened when she was a high school senior back home in Des Moines, Iowa. There were the usual round of pre-graduation parties, at various girls' homes.

There were only two black girls in the graduating class. One of them had a party and invited all her classmates. Cloris and a friend went and Cloris' father drove them to the house.

"Please pick us up in an hour, an hour and a half at the most," Cloris told her father.

The two girls went in and the party was lovely. Card tables had been set up and handsomely set with tablecloths and china and glassware. There was nice food and plenty of soft drinks. The hostess' mother was happy Cloris and her friend had come—because nobody else showed up. Right on schedule, Cloris' father picked them up.

"Later I found out," Cloris says, "that our senior class adviser—who was white—had called everybody in the class except three of us and told them not to go. I guess she knew better than to call us."

I said that wasn't exactly a moment she should have been ashamed of. She had at least gone to the party.

"No," she said, "I should have done something. I was too inexperienced to deal with it at the time. If I had been more experienced I would have done something. It was awful."

The mind boggles over what the Cloris of today would have done in that situation confronting the Cloris of yesterday. Today's Cloris Leachman is an outspoken woman who knows what is right and doesn't let anything or anybody get in her way.

Today's Cloris Leachman is going all out for her career. She says this is a recent development.

"I'm peculiar, I guess," she says, "but I felt I had to have a firm base to my life before I could really go after my career. I had to have a good, solid family base first."

She certainly has that. Her five children range in age from 20 to eight. If that isn't a firm family base, what is?

She's done a lot lately—the brilliant "The Migrants," a TV movie with her sister, Claiborne Cary, and the new Peter Bogdanovich movie, "Daisy Miller."

Is this layout for you?

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Building a home can be one of life's most enjoyable experiences or it can be something of a headache. The option is largely up to you and the amount of planning and preparation you give the project.

One of the first decisions that must be made is selecting the floor plan layout and exterior design you prefer. The least expensive and most efficient way to make this decision is to purchase our six books which illustrate in excess of 750 possible combinations of homes.

Here we have illustrated just one of the homes which is published in our books. From the graceful, well-proportioned lines of the gable roofs to the livable floor plan design, this is an exceptional home.

Only a small amount of space has been utilized to form a convenient center hall plan. Accessibility is further enhanced by locating a door in the wall between the garage and service.

A large, private bath is part of the master bedroom suite. This bath shares a common wall with the family bath.

The living room and dining have been combined in one spaicious room. Sliding glass doors open from both this room and the master bedroom to the patio, which will double as an outdoor living are. To obtain a more interesting design, the front wall of this Spanish exterior continues past the bedroom to provide space for an entry arch with ornamental iron gates and to also support an extension of the tile roof.

This same basic exterior is also available in a four-bedroom floor plan, at a different price structure, and is illustrated in our book, Homes by Hiawatha.

Complete working drawings for Plan 31150 can be purchased for only $12.55 for the first set and $6.30 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until July 10, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A speicification booklet is available for $1.05. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.05. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.31; Prize Homes — $1.31; Hallmark Homes — $1.31; Town & Country Homes — $1.31; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.31; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2.10. All six books — an $8.65 value — for only $6.83. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20 cents per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to; Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Calif. 91324.

Narrative reflects American paradox from death by making him responsible for the story of Kolvillag. Thus, the breaking becomes the keeping of the oath. Azriel honors the dead by refusing to forsake the living.

Wiesel's tale is dramatic, terrifying, liberating on its own terms. But is there more to it than that? How, for example, does a story about eccentric Jews in obscure regions of Eastern Europe make contact with American life in the 1970s?

The hatred, violence, and destruction of Kolvillag are a long way from Pomona, California. Or are they? Surely our American pledges to work for liberty and justice have taken us beyond European bloodbaths. Or have they?

President Nixon finds that the heart of America is good, the character of America is strong. He is right. The only thing to add is the other half of the story. America's heart is infected, perhaps breaking. America's character is weak, perhaps disintegrating. We must struggle to survive, reform, and redeem the mixture. That is also the story of Kolvillag, and we can learn from it.

Sometimes we see our own dilemmas and possibilities best if we take strange journeys into strange lands. In this case we also discover that the fears and hopes of Kolvillag are not so strange.

The misery and love, despair and grandeur, pain and release that walked those streets also fill our hearts and homes.

Plunge into Elie Wiesel's haunting chronicle. You will meet a lot of Americans, ugly and beautiful. You may even find yourself.

More about

Young travellers

Set up in over 30 countries, costs range from about $1,000 to $1,225. Anyone between 14 and 30 years of age is eligible (minimum age varies in different countries); student status is not necessary. If desired, you may stay abroad for travel on your own after the program ends. An optional crash language course (60 hours in 16 days) costs $285 extra. A limited number of partial scholarhsips and low-interest loans are available.

YOUTH FOR UNDERSTANDING, 2015 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104. Eight-week summer home stays are offered in 21 countries; participation is limited to high school students (usually between junior and senior years). The cost, regardless of country, is $900 ($600 for Mexico).

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE, 313 E. 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017. A summer home stay program of approximately 10 weeks operates in some 50 countries. It's open to high school juniors and seniors at AFS affiliated schools or when sponsored by a local chapter of AFS. Apply this coming September or October for the summer of 1975. Cost is $975; financial assistance may be available at local level.

In addition to fees quoted above, you will need money for travel to designated point of departure (usually New York), passport and spending money. If travel is based on group or charter air fare, early or late return is not permitted.

Youths needing financial assistance often can obtain scholarships from local civic organizations.

It takes from six to eight weeks from time of application until you're notified whether you've been accepted. The earlier you apply, the better your chance of getting the country of your choice.

Monstrous doctor

The title of the novel "Frankenstein" by Mary Shelley refers not to the created monster but to his creator, the doctor.
